ECONOMY BILL PASSED AND IS SENT TO HOOVER; FURLOUGH IS INCLUDED

Senate Votes Measure, 35-11

ACTION TAKEN AFTER FIGHTS

LaFollette Scores Chamber for Its Reversal

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The $150,000,000 economy bill, steeped in Federal personnel restrictions and extending one-month payless furloughs throughout the Government service, last night was recalled from conference, passed by the Senate, then hurried to the White House for signature.

Before the sun goes down tomorrow on the last day of the old fiscal year, it will be law. The vote for passage was 35 to 11. It followed viva voce approval of motions to reconsider earlier ballots rejecting both the economy conference report and the House furlough amendment.

A thin line of senators held out to the last against the about-face executed by the Senate at the behest of Appropriations Chairman Wesley L. Jones. They appeared unimpressed by his picture of impending "governmental chaos" to follow in the wake of rejection.

Leading the fight was Senator Robert M. La Follette, jr. (Republican), Wisconsin, who described the vote as a "humiliating surrender." By quorum calls he repeatedly delayed the final test. With ranks depleted by wholesale Democratic desertion, floor leaders were hard put to it to muster a majority.

Jones Asks for Action.

It was late in a day given over to the billion-dollar Postoffice-Treasury bill that Senator Jones moved for reconsideration of Senate action last week, rejecting the report.

"The condition of the appropriation bills makes it absolutely necessary that we enact this legislation before the start of the new fiscal year," he said. "If we don't get these bills through, then all of our efforts at economy go for nought."

There was a parliamentary skirmish, with Senators Bingham, Connecticut, and Reed, Pennsylvania (Republicans), vainly seeking postponement of the vote. Senator Bingham entered a futile request that new bills be printed "interpreting" the conference report. Senators Dale (Republican), Vermont, and Copeland (Democrat), New York, joined in the protest.

But it was too late. In the realigned words of Senator La Follette—"They have the votes." He fought reconsideration to the end, but admitted at the outset that the battle was lost.

An effort to modify one of the alleged inequities in the bill through a concurrent resolution was made immediately following the decisive ballot, by Senator Bingham.

Objection by McNary.

He proposed that the provision requiring discharge of married workers, where husband and wife both are employed in the Federal service, be stricken. An immediate vote was asked, but Senator McNary (Oregon), assistant Republican leader, objected.

Leading up to the final vote on the

Baldwin Indorses Hoover Arms Cut

Conservative Leader Tells Commons He Favors President's Plan.

London, June 28 (U.P.).—Stanley Baldwin, acting prime minister and leader of the powerful Conservative party, told the House of Commons tonight that he was "anxious to see at least as much disarmament as implied" in President Hoover's disarmament proposals.

Mr. Baldwin said the Government's attitude toward the plan could not be announced at present, although he hinted that a definite announcement would be made soon.

The Conservative leader, whose party has been reported opposed to the naval phases of the plan, although Mr. MacDonald was said to approve the project without reservation, said he welcomed the Hoover suggestions because they were on the scale on which he approved. They proposed about one-third reduction.

Economy Bill Provisions Affecting U. S. Employes

The following provisions vitally affecting Government employes everywhere were embodied in the economy bill passed yesterday by the Senate and sent to the White House.

Federal workers earning in excess of $1,000 will be placed on a one-month payless furlough. Where this will not apply, a pay cut, ranging from 8.3 per cent between $1,000 and $10,000, to 20 per cent on over $20,000, will be substituted.

Automatic pay increases and promotions within grades will be suspended at once.

Where married couples are employed in the Federal service, husband or wife will be the first discharged.

Pay for overtime work, including work on Sundays and holidays, will be immediately suspended, except that workers now receiving a 10 per cent night pay differential will be paid at the rate of 5 per cent.

No vacancies will be filled in the Federal service without written consent of the President.

Workers reaching the retirement age will be forced to withdraw from the service unless extensions are expressly granted by the President.

Retired military officers holding civilian positions would not be permitted to draw in excess of $3,000, including pensions.

Annual leave with pay will be permanently reduced to fifteen days. The furlough plan makes this inoperative for a year.

Heads of departments are given authority to retire workers for indefinite periods to keep within appropriations.

Retirement pay will be based at the annual rate of pay before salary reductions, and deductions made accordingly.

Money saved from operation of the furlough plan will not be applied to retaining workers in office, as originally proposed, but will go into the Treasury.

LINDBERGH DOUBTS CONTACT BY CURTIS

Flemington, N. J., June 28 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, testifying today in the trial of John Hughes Curtis for obstructing justice, flatly diverged in his stated opinion from the prosecution contention the Norfolk boat builder was "in actual contact" with the kidnapers of Lindbergh's infant son.

"I don't believe Mr. Curtis ever had contact with the kidnapers," said the famous flier.

There was a hush in the courtroom as the flier told about learning his baby was dead.

"How did you identify the body?" he was asked.

"By the clothes, and the feet," he replied, quietly.

Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, fidgeted and looked down whenever the child was mentioned.

Col. Lindbergh reaffirmed his faith in the nurse, in Ollie Wheatley, the butler, and Mrs. Wheatley, housekeeper, after electrifying the jury by saying Curtis had told him the kidnaping was arranged through a member of his own household.

"We have only three servants, and I have complete confidence in them," he said.

He also reaffirmed his faith in Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, who futilely paid $50,000 of Lindbergh's money to a supposed member of the kidnap gang.

The Lindbergh recital, replete with details, a curious, jostling crowd strained to hear, seemed to bear out the line of offense it was first sup-

Nanking Seeks to Raise Its Legation to Embassy

Shanghai, China, June 28 (A.P.).—The Nanking government has decided to open negotiations at Washington and London with the purpose of raising the Chinese legations to the status of embassies.

WHITAKER IS SEIZED IN MEANS BABY HOAX

New York, June 28 (A.P.).—A former convict charged with playing the role of the Lindbergh baby kidnaper in the fantastic hoax engineered by Gaston B. Means was arraigned in Federal court today while Department of Justice agents sought to determine whether he had been merely acting the part or whether he had a more sinister connection with the case.

The prisoner, Norman T. Whitaker, who figured as the melodramatic "Fox No. 19" in the transaction by which Means mulcted $104,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean on promises to return the Lindbergh child, was held in $100,000 bail pending removal to Washington.

What induced Government agents to look upon Whitaker as possibly more than a talented actor was his alleged assertion he possessed $49,500 of the marked money paid by Dr. John F. Condon in another series of ransom exchanges, coupled with their own asserted information he was in New York at the time the money was paid.

Whitaker, a champion chess player in his college days, was arrested secretly in Brooklyn last night. Federal operatives traced him through his use of the alias Neil Williams in the Means-McLean negotiations.

Mrs. McLean, who went with Means

Williams Not to Run Again in House Race

He said the present length congressional session had prevented him from campaigning his District thoroughly and that his physician had advised against an active campaign. Williams is completing his sixth term.

Sandino and Enemy Chiefs Agree to Peace Conference

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, June 28 A.P.).—A peace conference between Gen. Augusto Sandino, the Nicaraguan insurgent, and powerful political leaders of his country has been arranged for the very near future, it was announced today.

This startling development in Nicaraguan affairs came about very quietly through Gen. Manuel Ballardes, prominent Sandinista, who recently talked with American officials from Nicaragua after a conference with Gen. Sandino.

The conference will be held, it was privately announced, at San Lorenzo, a Honduran port. The participants probably will be the four liberal candidates for the Nicaraguan presidency and Gen. Horacio Portocarrero, Sandino's candidate in the coming election.

The private advices said there was a possibility that an American observer would be asked to join the conferees, but it was not known whether one could accept, even in an unofficial capacity.

RAICHLE CASE PROSECUTION HALT CALLED

Surprise Action Taken on Instruction From Mitchell.

CHANGE IN ATTITUDE OF EDWARDS CITED

Directed Acquittal Is Due to Be Sought Today by Defense.

Acting on telephoned instructions from Attorney General William D. Mitchell, Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General in charge of criminal prosecutions, yesterday afternoon caused an abrupt halt in the presentation of prosecution testimony in the case of Frank G. Raichle, a law partner of former Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan, who is being tried in the District Supreme Court on an indictment charging him with obstruction of justice and subornation of perjury.

In a whispered conference at the bench, in which Justice F. D. Letts, Nell Burkinshaw, assistant to Dodds, and James O. Moore, of Buffalo, attorney for Raichle, participated, Dodds informed Justice Letts that the Attorney General had phoned him and had directed him not to present any additional prosecution testimony until he had conferred with him.

"I am not sure but that it may result in our putting no more witnesses on the stand in behalf of the Government," Dodds informed Justice Letts.

Conference With Richardson.

At this point Mr. Moore broke in to tell Justice Letts that Monday night he had talked with Seth W. Richardson, Assistant Attorney General, who had talked to John H. Edwards, a former vice president of the F. H. Smith Co. Moore said that Richardson promised to look up the record and find out what Edwards, who now accuses Raichle of knowledge of the spurious documents that G. Bryan Pitts introduced in his trial, had told Richardson. Upon the basis of what Richardson told him, Moore said, he asked him to hold himself in readiness to testify in Raichle's behalf.

At this point Burkinshaw declared he had attempted to bring out in his questioning of Edwards yesterday that Edwards had only recently changed his story of how the spurious authorizations Pitts produced in his trial involved Raichle.

"Up to last December," he said, "he (Edwards) always maintained that Raichle knew nothing of it. I tried to bring that out this morning, and my good friend (Moore) objected."

In a further colloquy, Burkinshaw agreed with Moore that Edwards had always "exonerated him" (Raichle).

Hearing Postponed.

Dodds then asked Moore's consent to an immediate cessation of the trial until he conferred with Mr. Mitchell. That was agreed to and the trial was postponed at 2:06, almost three hours ahead of the regular time.

Donovan had been a daily visitor at the trial of Raichle. He left here yesterday to fly to New York to attend the funeral of Father Duffy, war-time chaplain of the Army, who died Sunday.

A determined bid for acquittal of Raichle through directed verdict will be made in the District Supreme Court today by Mr. Moore.

Mr. Moore announced that the first defense move would be to question legally the sufficiency of the evidence that the Government has introduced in an effort to prove

Foster Is Arrested At Meeting of Reds

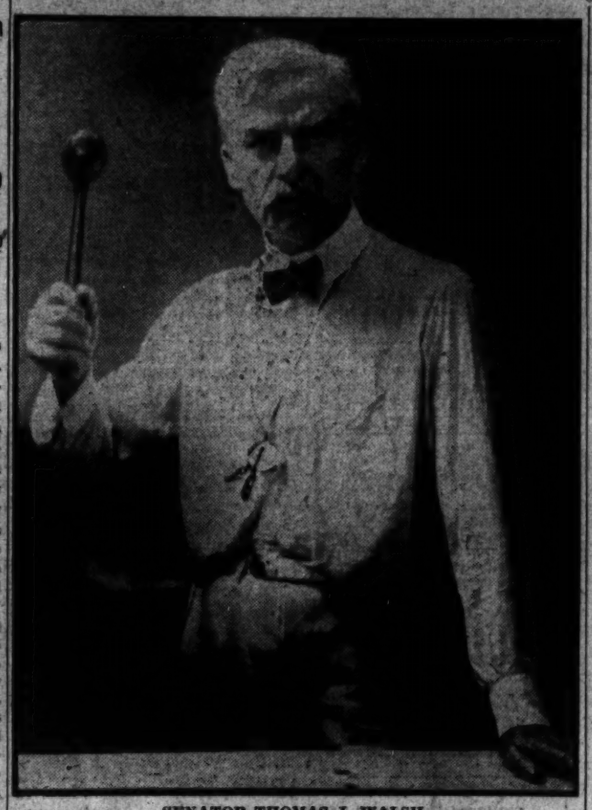
Communists' Candidate for President Is Seized in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, June 23 (A.P.).—Hauled from the tonneau of an automobile as he stood to address a throng in the plaza, William Z. Foster, leader and presidential candidate of the Communist party in the United States, was arrested here today as police bombed a milling crowd with tear gas.

Five other men who attempted to promulgate their leader's cause in the clash with the police Red squad were clapped into jail as promptly, and three young women, who stayed behind to jeer the perspiring officers, joined them. The crowd dispersed.

The arrest of Foster occurred as nearly 4,000 persons, swarming about the plaza, in the older downtown section, watched with laughter and boos. The Communist leader was booked on suspicion of criminal syndicalism.

ROOSEVELT'S TRIPLE TRIUMPH IN VOTING INTENSIFIES BATTLE; WALSH PERMANENT CHAIRMAN



SENATOR THOMAS J. WALSH.

Best Showing of Preliminary Ballot Is 112 Short of Two-Thirds Necessary

CAUCUS OF TAMMANY SUDDENLY POSTPONED

Opponents of New York Governor Fight to Hold Lines; Reports Of Likely Defections Grow

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—Thrice victors in the convention by wide majorities, the Roosevelt Democrats pressed through the late hours tonight to make the most of their advantage in the hope of a swing that would carry the New York Governor a good bit beyond the two-thirds vote needed to nominate.

Their best showing in the session that kept the delegates on edge for six hours today found the Roosevelt cause 80 ahead of a majority, but 112 behind the 770 which must be had to select a nominee to oppose the Hoover-Curtis ticket in November.

Alert to the situation, members of the inner circle of leaders of the party that have opposed Roosevelt had their scouts scurrying tonight and secluded themselves for conference. Rumors ran galore, but there was no authentic telling of what was to come.

Farley "More Confident Than Ever."

Rejoicing over the 626 to 528 margin by which Senator Walsh, of Montana, was elected permanent chairman, James A. Farley—the Roosevelt manager—proclaimed himself "more confident than ever" that the first ballot would put his man across.

But in the opposition sectors—both the vociferous and less vocal opposition—leaders and delegates were talking of what might happen on the third, fourth or fifth ballot. It was freely speculated that unless a nomination is made in the early balloting, there is no telling how long it will take.

Among the numbers of reports that were welcomed by the Roosevelt people came one that a number of Missourians would leave former Senator James A. Reed after the first ballot or so, and another that the Indiana majority was headed Roosevelt's way. As one experienced politician put it, many of the uncertain delegations were "watching until the time is ripe" to join the winning side.

Tammany Defers Caucus.

In that connection, the New York delegation—the majority of whose 94 votes is controlled by Tammany—postponed a scheduled caucus to bide its time before settling on whom to back. Instead, a number of informal private conferences were held. Curry himself, the sphinx of New York politics, who holds command over more than 50 convention votes, would not reveal in any way his attitude toward any of the candidates.

But intimations of Tammany's present attitude came from several of those who had talked with him.

"It looks now as if Roosevelt would be nominated within a few ballots," said one of Curry's lieutenants and consultants.

Other Tammany leaders said they had urged Curry to have the organization cast a complimentary vote on the first ballot for Alfred E. Smith, who is a Tammany sachem, and then switch to Roosevelt if he has the strength anticipated.

Curry Governor's Friend.

It was made clear that Tammany has nothing against Roosevelt; that Curry himself is a personal friend of the governor, and that the only reason for delay in taking a definite stand is Tammany's desire to be on the side of the winner.

The Tammany leaders, on the basis of today's tests, figured their chief State executive will have 660 to 680 votes on first ballot. In this case it would require the switching of only

Election Is Set Today to Confirm Action Taken at Gathering in Camp Marks; Headquarters Guarded.

To offset an expected coup by his enemies to assume control of the bonus army, Walter W. Waters resumed command of the forces last night after he appeared in Camp Marks and was elected commander in chief by acclamation.

A few minutes later, the executive committee ordered a confirmatory election to be held in all the camps at 2 o'clock this afternoon. If Waters is confirmed, he will be permanent commander of the army.

Turmoil gripped the camps after the men acclaimed Waters as their leader. Wild rumors spread through the camps and the headquarters of the army was the scene of a heated dispute between Waters and Mike Thomas, head of Camp Marks, and an aspirant for the leadership of the army.

Rumored threats that the Thomas forces would seize the national headquarters at 730 Eleventh street southeast caused extra guards of the Waters forces to be thrown about the frame dwelling where the policy of the army is shaped.

Similar precautions were taken at Camp Marks where Thomas forces expected the arrival of Waters to assume command there. Fear that disorders would occur caused Inspector L. I. H. Edwards and T. R. Bean to visit the headquarters of the army to warn against disorders.

Cowles Confirmed For Finance Board

Senate Acts When Watson Asserts Hoover Will Not Name Head.

(Associated Press.)

Gardner Cowles, sr., of Iowa, was confirmed yesterday by the Senate as a director of the Reconstruction Corporation, succeeding Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

The action came after Senator Watson, the Republican leader, had told the Senate President Hoover does not intend naming the president of the corporation.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, had shown a disposition to hold up the Cowles nomination, because of reports the White House proposed to appoint a president. He contended there is no authority for that.

Battle in Coal Strike Is Fought on Ohio River

Powhatan, Ohio, June 28 (A.P.).—The first "sea" battle of the Ohio bituminous coal field strike was fought today on the Ohio River. Seven boatloads of pickets clashed with a half dozen boats bearing men from the West Virginia side.

Clubs and oars were used by the combatants as the "battle fleets" met in midstream. Two miners were thrown into the river during the melee, but were rescued by deputy sheriffs.

PARLEY IN LAUSANNE FAILURE; ENDS TODAY

Lausanne, Switzerland, June 28 (A.P.).—Every effort to bring about a Franco-German reparations agreement failed today and the international statesmen who gathered here in a spirit of hope two weeks ago prepared to give the Lausanne conference decent burial.

Unless there is an unforseen—almost miraculous—change of front overnight, the six leading powers will meet tomorrow to prepare for adjournment and to arrange for the usual gesture of appointing a committee of experts to solve the problems they have been unable to solve.

In the fall another attempt will be made to compose the reparations conflict at another international conference.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain made almost superhuman efforts to bring about an agreement between Premier Edouard Herriot of France, who insisted that reparations must not be canceled, and Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany, who insisted that they must.

The prime minister received M. Herriot and Herr von Papen at a joint conference this afternoon. For two hours they talked.

But the negotiations got nowhere. Both the French and German representatives were fearful of the political effect back home of any disposition to give in, although Mr. MacDonald argued that unless they got together the conference necessarily must fail.

The six powers participating in tomorrow's meeting are Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan. Mr. MacDonald is expected to deliver the funeral oration of the conference at that time.

League Investigators Depart From Peiping

Peiping, China, June 28 (A.P.).—The League of Nations commission investigating affairs in the Far East left tonight for Tokyo. Its members will return late in August to draft a report.

PLATFORM DELAYED BY WET PLANK SPLIT

Repealists Fear Move to Defer Decision Until After Nomination.

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—The firebrand prohibition issue divided the Democratic resolutions committee tonight and evoked a futile debate over consideration of this plank by the Democratic convention.

The Roosevelt-controlled subcommittee reported an agreement on the 1932 Democratic platform to the whole committee tonight, but asked that action be withheld until tomorrow, explaining there was difference of opinion on the language of the repeal submission plank.

The wets, led by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, expressed fear of a move to defer the prohibition issue until after the nomination of a President and demanded an immediate showdown.

Some of the Roosevelt leaders replied that such a move was under contemplation. After a three-hour argument the committee adjourned until tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Senator Walsh is sponsoring a move by 20 States and Territories committing the party to repeal of the eighteenth amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act. Leaving the committee room, he announced he would ask a decision in time for action by the convention tomorrow.

G.O.P. Maps Plans For Senate Races

Hatfield to Be in Charge of General Headquarters in Capital.

(Associated Press.)

Plans for aiding in the election of Republicans to the Senate were mapped out yesterday at a meeting of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

The committee decided to divide the country into three sections. It was agreed that Chairman Hatfield, of West Virginia, would be in charge of general headquarters at Washington, with divisional headquarters at New York, Chicago and Cheyenne.

Senator Hebert, of Rhode Island, will be in charge of the Eastern sector; Senator Carey, of Wyoming, in charge of the Far Western, at Cheyenne, with either Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, or Senator Patterson, of Missouri, directing activities in the Middle West from Chicago.

Newfoundland Premier And Government Quit

St. Johns, N. F., June 28 (A.P.).—Sir Richard Squires, premier of Newfoundland, resigned with his government today and a new government, headed by P. C. Alderdice, was planned. Sir Richard and his followers suffered an overwhelming defeat in the general election held June 11.

SENATOR WALSH MADE PERMANENT CHAIRMAN

LONG'S ROOSEVELT DELEGATES SEATED

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—In a riotous setting, the Democratic national convention today seated Huey Long's delegates from Louisiana and Einar Hoidale's from Minnesota, both supporting Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidential nomination.

Long's State central committee chosen delegates won by a vote of 638¾ to 514½ over the J. Y. Sanders' State convention elected delegates who had announced no preference for President. The Hoidale Roosevelt-pledged delegates won by a vote of 658¼ to 492¾ over the John E. Regan delegates pledged to Alfred E. Smith.

The convention floor fight represented the third battle, with the same result, since the convention opened. The Long and Hoidale delegate won a place on the temporary convention roll before the Democratic national committee and then received the recommendation of the majority of the credentials committee.

Long and Hoidale took the platform defense of their delegates and each argued that if their delegations were unseated there would not be any presidential electors on the November ballots, as the electors had been chosen on the same basis as the delegates.

The galleries made a field day of the contests. Huey Long was greeted with a conglomerate mixture of vocal noise and when he finished a delegate on the front row yelled "bite him on the leg" and the crowd roared.

John Ewing, who had been chosen national committeeman by the Sanders' delegates said in a statement that his delegation suffered from "unfair steam roller tactics of the Roosevelt steering committee." Huey Long said the seating of his delegates meant Roosevelt would be nominated.

A third contest from Puerto Rico between delegates led by Benjamin J. Horton and W. R. Bennet was pulled down before it reached the floor. The convention chairman announced the contest had been abandoned and the Horton delegates were seated.

Capital Delegates Bound by Unit Rule

Barkley Decides Question in Ballot Over Long Representation.

Chicago Stadium, June 28 (A.P.).—The District of Columbia delegates were held to be under the unit rule today in the Democratic convention by temporary Chairman Barkley, in a controversy over the vote on the seating of the Louisiana delegation headed by Senator Huey Long.

Eight delegates voted for the unit rule and four against. John B. Colpoys argued that under the rules the District of Columbia delegates were bound. Col. Arthur O'Brien argued that the convention had no jurisdiction over the unit rules made effective in the States and in the District.

Barkley held that under District of Columbia law the unit rule applied. The six District votes, therefore, were against the minority report on the Louisiana contest, and helped to build up Long's majority.

Radio Tells Roosevelt Of Victory Over Shouse

Executive Mansion, Albany, N. Y., June 28 (A.P.).—A broad smile illuminated the heavily lined face of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt as the radio roared into his ears today news of the election of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, as permanent chairman of the convention.

The New Yorker had no official comment on the success of his candidate over Jouett Shouse, of the anti-Roosevelt camp, but he evidenced to his friends pleasure over the most recent important turn in his battle for the Democratic presidential nomination.

India Constitution Plan to Be Offered

Measure on Autonomy for Land Soon Will Go to Parliament.

London, June 28 (A.P.).—A comprehensive plan for a future constitution of India, embodying both the aspects of federation and provincial automony, will soon be presented in a bill to Parliament, Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of India, announced today.

In detailing the steps preliminary to the bill's introduction, Sir Samuel expressed on behalf of the government the opinion that settlement of the outstanding questions in India would only be delayed by formal sessions of large bodies like the round table conference.

It was therefore proposed to reach a decision on the communal question first, he said. Then, if the units concerned would give adequate assurance that they were prepared to federate, and if the interests which need safeguarding were adequately protected, definite proposals would be submitted by the cabinet to select committees of the Lords and the House of Commons.

ROOSEVELT TRIUMPHS THRICE; HAS FAR UNDER TWO-THIRDS

two or three large delegations to nominate Roosevelt.

In the other two patience-trying roll calls, the Rooseveltian flock seated the Senator Huey Long delegation from Louisiana by 638¾ to 514½ and the Minnesotans led by Einar Hoidale on a count of 658¼ against 492¾.

Farley ejaculated immediately: "That was our weakest vote," as he joined the cheerers. But it proved not to be, a slightly lighter lead coming for Walsh.

Davis Pleads for Shouse.

It was the veteran and scholarly Montana senator who presided through those days of torrid dispute at Madison Square Garden eight years ago, until he almost broke under the strain. By one of the coincidences that politics produces, one of those opposing him today in favor of Jouett Shouse was the nominee of that convention—John W. Davis, of New York.

While paying high personal tribute to Walsh, the celebrated lawyer likewise praised the service Shouse has done the party in his post as executive director, referred to the agreement which his supporters insisted had been entered into on behalf of Roosevelt for his selection as chairman—but which the governor has denied—and asked if the honor of the office at stake should not properly be his as a reward.

In answer, Senator Dill, of Washington, paid high respects to Shouse, but called the question one between "a man of ability and personality" and one "long experienced in the convention affairs of the party."

Disorder in Delegations.

At one or two points, as Dill argued briefly, he was interrupted by loud "boos" that seemed to come mainly from the galleries. He paused unnoticing, and then went quietly on, to be given a momentary ovation that paralleled the one given Davis in his wind-up.

Then the roll began amidst some disorder, as one or two delegations engaged in controversies as to the accuracy of the vote given for them. Pencils quivered all over the filled stadium in trying to keep up with the tally—and the outcome was uncertain until the very end.

In contrast with the fever of watchfulness which marked those three stirring ballots, when the rules committee report came up at the last minute—formally closing the two-thirds rule dispute that has raged day in and day out through indorsing the rule for this convention—little if any attention did it get. Very few of those on hand seemed aware of what was going on, the report being accepted with the barest ripple of notice.

The tension so evident through the arguments on the chairmanship and the contests broke when that final vote was over.

Walsh Parade Starts.

As Senator Barkley—the temporary chairman—roared the result a flurry of applause started far back among the outlying delegations. Somebody pulled the Montana standard over Senator Walsh's head from its place and set off down the aisle. At once all the standards of States which participated in putting the Montanan in power over the convention joined in, and the march jostled and pushed its slow way under the flooding picture light.

The organ and band alternated in helping things along a bit, but there was no battle hymn to give special thrill. Even when the music stopped, the paraders kept on, cheering and yelling.

Down through the center of the hall, a solid block of delegates from New York, Massachusetts, California, Ohio and Texas stuck to their seats looking on. A standard guard clung to each State sign, but they were not needed.

Senator Barkley began pounding for order after a few minutes. The uproar subsided magically and within another minute or two Senator Walsh was escorted to the platform to receive generous applause from all over the floor.

Walsh Assails G. O. P.

Senator Walsh, in a brief prepared address that he read in his usual professorial manner, reminded the party of its duties and tasks—and attacked the Republican opposition. As for the recent administration, he said that for the past eleven years this Government has been run on "the theory that national well-being is to be looked for by giving free rein to the captains of industry and magnates in the field of finance, and accommodating government to their desires."

"From every section of the country an aroused and wrathful people demand a new deal," he declared, to the delight of the assembled Democrats.

The rules adopted, as modified at a hastily-summoned meeting of the committee today, call for consideration of the platform at tomorrow's session meeting at noon. There is the probability of another dispute on pro-and-anti-Roosevelt lines over prohibition. The committee dominated by his supporters wants to hold the party to promising submission of a repeal amendment, but Alfred E. Smith and other leaders in the Eastern delegations are determined to pledge the party as favoring repeal, if possible.

Bigger Doings Due Today.

In general, for all the moments of excitement and tension, the first hours of today's meeting were matter-of-fact by comparison with what a growing number of delegates expect to come when the nominating and balloting on a nominee gets under way tomorrow and Thursday.

The intense loyalties at work, despite the reports of sentiment for favorite sons cracking under the impetus of the Roosevelt majority, showed themselves in full force when "Maryland, My Maryland" came forth from the huge pipe organ before Senator Barkley could get the convention in order.

The handsome Maryland Governor met the cheers for his "Win With Ritchie" slogans that began to wave by standing on his chair to wave his straw sailor hat to and fro greeting his friends.

Missouri Overrides Reed.

Then "The Sidewalks of New York," within a matter of seconds, lifted the Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York delegations—to join the prancing Marylanders. Cheers for Al Smith rocked forth from those combinations of delegates, while the rest of the hall sat watching quietly.

The tune of "I've Been Working on the Railroad" next pealed out, inspiring the vociferous band of Texans on the floor to shout for Speaker Garner. The wet faction in that delegation lifted high its brand-new sign, "Join for Repeal With Garner."

All was not quite so pleasant for another "favorite son" through the day, the Missouri delegation overriding former Senator Reed to vote, 18 to 14, in favor of the Roosevelt choice—Walsh—for permanent chairman.

Mrs. Anna Nolan Christian, a delegate, told reporters the one-time senator had been denied a chance to address the caucus. It was explained later that only delegates were accorded this privilege.

PLATFORM DELAYED BY WET PLANK SPLIT

had a majority," was as far as Walsh would go on a prediction.

The Roosevelt majority of the platform-making committee is agreed upon the principle of a repeal submission plank without committing the party, but there is such a difference of view on the language that a report by tomorrow is problematical.

The Rooseveltians are practically together on the language but William G. McAdoo, of California, and Senator Glass, of Virginia, have proposals of their own and a new plank is in prospect.

Meanwhile, the prohibition issue has worked into the presidential contest. Alfred E. Smith is backing the unconditional repeal proposal. Roosevelt forces want only submission of a repeal amendment.

The remainder of the 1,200-word platform contains little disputed material. Advocates for full cash payment of the veterans' bonus insurance certificates appealed to the committee tonight for indorsement but the platform contains no bonus plank. The bonus proposal was presented in executive session by Representatives Patman, of Texas; Rankin, of Mississippi, and Connery, of Massachusetts.

Leaders of the three big farm organizations also presented a program providing in substance for agriculture equality with industry under the tariff, control of surpluses, and other general relief plans.

Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, stormed the meeting to demand a plank for a leadership in Congress by persons "not privately or professionally obligated to interests inimical to the welfare of the general public."

Long recently challenged the leadership of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and complained of his law firm connections. Asked if his proposal tonight was aimed at Robinson, the Louisiana "Kingfish" replied:

"If the hat fits him let him wear it."

The three bonus proponents presented their plan as members of the service men's division of the Democratic national committee. Their proposal follows:

"We favor generous appropriations, honest management, sympathetic care and assistance in the hospitalization of veterans with service connected disabilities, rehabilitation and compensation of the veterans and their dependents.

"We favor allowances to widows and orphans of World War veterans and the immediate payment in full cash of the adjusted service certificates.

"We are unalterably opposed to the existent wasteful and extravagant methods and management of the Veterans' Bureau."

2 Teams Are Tied In Bridge Tourney

Army and Navy Will Meet Washington Golf and Country in Playoff.

Army and Navy Club Team No. 1 and Washington Golf and Country Club Team No. 1 tied for first place last night in the Inter-Club Duplicate Bridge Contest at the Shoreham Hotel. The playoff will be held tonight, with the other qualifying teams of the National Press Club and the Columbia Country Club also participating.

The two first teams scored 19½ of a possible 30 match points. The National Press Club scored 18¼ points and the Columbia Club scored 18. The contest was under the supervision of A. P. Stockvis. Washington representative of Ely Culbertson.

The Army and Navy Club team was composed of W. R. Coe, F. W. Hoover, H. Muncaster and Tom Hamlin. The Washington Golf and Country Club team was composed of O. L. Veerhoff, A. B. Galt, Dr. Anderson and Dr. George Huffman.

Couple Feared Lost at Sea.

Sears Takes Lead In Florida Run-Off

Jacksonville, Fla., June 28 (A.P.).—A duplication of the close race in the first primary three weeks ago developed tonight in the contest for representative at large, as returns came in slowly from today's run-off Democratic primary. With the ballots tabulated from 240 of the State's 1,273 precincts, Former Representative T. J. Sears led Mayor John T. Alsop, of Jacksonville, by less than 1,000 votes. The count was Sears, 12,205; Alsop, 11,306.

David Sholtz, of Daytona Beach, former president of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, maintained a better than 2-to-1 lead over former Gov. John W. Martin in the gubernatorial contest. The vote from 487 precincts gave Sholtz 54,883;; Martin 26,567. Shortly before midnight Martin conceded the nomination to Sholtz.

WALSH HOLDS G.O.P. POLICIES BLAMABLE

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—With a call to the party to gird itself to lead the country back to better times, Senator Walsh, of Montana, took over the permanent chairmanship of the Democratic convention late today by the decisive voice of a majority of the delegates.

The man who swung the gavel at Madison Square Garden in 1924 for the longest meeting in the history of the party assailed the Republican policies that have controlled the Government for the last three administrations, giving full measure of criticism to high tariffs, fiscal policies, and the attitude he said the Government had assumed toward industry and agricultural relief.

"None will question that in the struggle for resuscitation the barriers to international trade arising from ill-considered readjustment of national boundaries, the revived and intensified national hatreds and embargo tariffs and similar restrictions are major obstacles," he said, in pointing out difficulties in the way of commercial recovery. "The occasion called for the most liberal international cooperation. Too late it has come to be realized that our prosperity is intimately bound up in that of the rest of the world.

Tariff Wall Denounced.

"Having become the greatest creditor nation on earth, with all Europe our debtors, we demanded that they pay, and proceeded to build higher our tariff wall not once, but twice, in less than ten years, in effect adding to their obligation, and diminishing their ability to pay.

"Retaliatory tariffs were to be expected and they have come."

The fiscal policy of the Government, he said, "has shown a constant subserviency to the wealthy and powerful, whose taxes in a season of hectic prosperity were repeatedly reduced, leaving a huge burden of public debt unliquidated, the interest of which cuts deeply into the diminishing revenues of the Treasury in these times of stress, to say nothing of the effect on the credit of the Government now sustained only by the imposition of taxes approaching those rendered necessary by the exigency of the World War."

He called the "continued prostration of agriculture" the "tragedy of the last decade," and said:

Unequal Spread of Wealth.

"With callous indifference every appeal for relief was ignored or rejected until, yielding to political necessity, a substitute for the measures originating with the representatives of the languishing industry was brought forward by the administration and passed, of the scandalous history of which, in its operation, the whole world knows."

Senator Walsh said that "another weakness in our economic system scarcely less obvious" was the inequal distribution "of the amazing accumulation of wealth garnered in the ten-year period from 1920 to 1929, inclusive, and its concentration in relatively few hands."

He called for a return to the policies of Jefferson, and in concluding cited a long list of Democratic notables to prove that the Republicans have "no monopoly of talent."

"It is no particular compliment to any individual in the galaxy of statesmen whose names have been prominently mentioned in connection with the nomination you are about to make for President of the United States to say that his public career has shown him to be at least the equal of any one of the last three incumbents of that exalted office," he said.

Dawes Statements Reassure Chicago

Central Republics' Cash Position "Impregnable" Chairman of Bank Says.

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—Along La Salle street's financial row traders today hailed as a steadying influence reassuring statements intended to wither rumors and speculation concerning the affairs of Gen. Charles G. Dawes' Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., third largest financial institution in the city.

Gen. Dawes, whose return as chairman of the bank yesterday was accompanied by a spectacular downward plunge of its stock, himself hastened to set as rest rumors of a merger with the city's largest institution, the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co. He declared Central Republic's cash position was "impregnable."

And from Vice Chairman Joseph L. Otis came an explanation for the precipitous drop that sent the stock, in over-the-counter sales, from $47 bid and $49 asked on Saturday to $1 bid and $4 asked at the close yesterday. "We simply withdrew our support," he said.

Gen. Dawes, who returned to control of the bank yesterday after almost eight years in public service as Vice President under Coolidge, Ambassador to Great Britain and head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, declared the institution was made impregnable by negotiated loans which were necessitated by heavy recent drains on cash resources. Otis said the money was obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and it was understood the amount was sufficiently large to pay off all depositors in full if necessary.

Dividend Action Passed By Atchison Directors

Three months ago the directors voted a payment of $1, but warned that continuance was contingent upon improved earnings. In January the annual disbursement rate was cut to $6 from $10, the latter amount having been paid since 1927. In 1925 and 1926 the distribution was $7. Prior to the former year payments, beginning with 1901, had ranged from $8.50 to $6 a share.

VIRGINIA DELEGATES BACK LOSING FIGHTS

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—The position taken by former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd in supporting Jouett Shouse for permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention, was backed solidly in the losing fight today by the Virginia delegation.

Byrd's name was mentioned several times from the platform as the work of the subcommittee on arrangements which recommended Shouse was detailed by speakers.

The Shouse defeat provided the climax of a day in which the State was constantly in the minority, voting for delegations from Louisiana and Minnesota which were denied seats.

They greeted with satisfaction the information that the Roosevelt supporters had dropped the fight for abrogation of the two-thirds rule at any stage of the convention, and likewise the effort to have the nominations before the platform was adopted. Virginia had taken a vigorous stand against both proposals and members of the delegation hailed the end of the fight as favorable to the candidacy of Byrd for the presidential nomination.

During the Long debates luncheon parties were organized by groups of delegates. One of these included former Gov. Byrd, Mrs. George Sloane, of Warrenton, and T. McCall Frazier.

Dan Porter, leader of the "farm bloc" in the House, became an ex-officio usher and caused friends temporary uneasiness by slapping them on the back and telling them to "clear the aisles," a familiar phrase frequently shouted from the platform.

The delegation headquarters, almost deserted during the long convention session, came to life again tonight, as additional thousands came in to greet former Gov. Byrd, who finds it hard to leave once he enters. The delegates took advantage of the opportunities to urge support of Byrd for the presidential nomination.

Virginia has a complete organization, and an effort is being made to see practically every delegate at the convention to urge Byrd's candidacy.

Schedule of Business At Convention Today

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—The order of business for the rest of the Democratic national convention is all ironed out, but nobody knows how long it will take.

The official program and the convention manual provide for two more days with nominating speeches starting tomorrow, continuing on Thursday, and the balloting Thursday.

The resolution adopted by the convention today limiting nominating speeches to 20 minutes and second speeches to five minutes will do much to speed up the procedure.

The expected debate on prohibition tomorrow will be limited, so the only thing to keep the delegates here later than Thursday will be a deadlock over the nominations.

The convention will decide tomorrow whether to hold a night session. The order of business is as follows:

Called to order at noon by permanent Chairman Thomas J. Walsh, United States Senator from Montana.

Report of committee on resolutions and platform.

Debate on prohibition plank.

Roll call on minority report.

Adoption of platform.

Card Players in Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 28 (A.P.).—Three hundred expert card players from all parts of the country were in Cleveland today for the annual congress of the American Whist League, held jointly this year with the Women's Whist League. The congress will continue through July 2.

FAMILY TREE CITED IN PLEA FOR RITCHIE

Bruce Sends Letter to Dixie Delegates; Galleries Cheer Governor.

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—The family tree of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and his "distinguished Southern ancestry" were used today in an effort to further his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Delegates from Dixie at the national convention received letters signed by Howard Bruce, Democratic national committeeman of Maryland, urging them to "line up" for Ritchie.

After stating that Ritchie was born in Richmond, Va., the letter listed a number of his ancestors.

"One of his ancestors, Joseph Cabell, was a close associate of Thomas Jefferson and helped the great Democratic statesman to found the University of Virginia. Cabell Hall, of the University, is a memorial to his eminent services.

Grandfather Was Governor.

"Gov. Ritchie's great-grandfather, William H. Cabell, was Governor of Virginia and chief judge of the Virginia Court of Appeals. A number of his relatives fought in the Southern armies during the Civil War. An uncle, then a cadet at V. M. I., was killed at New Market. Gov. Ritchie's uncle, the Hon. Boykin Wright, is a former attorney general of Georgia.

"Gov. Ritchie's father was a judge in Maryland and an uncle was a member of the Maryland Court of Appeals."

The letter closed with the statement that "the Southern States should line up for Gov. Ritchie."

While the governor's friends were working to swing votes to him, the galleries in the convention hall showed that he is a favorite, cheering him lustily on his appearance today.

Sits Beside Jackson.

Ritchie again today sat beside Mayor Howard Jackson of Baltimore throughout the lengthy day session. He did not take advantage of his position as chairman of the delegation to announce the vote of the State on the various roll calls, leaving it to Mayor Jackson, who is vice chairman.

The delegation lined up solidly with the minority forces fighting against the Roosevelt majority. They voted against seating the Hughey P. Long delegation from Louisiana, cast a ballot favoring seating of both Minnesota delegations, and then were on the losing side in the Senator Walsh-Jouett Shouse fight for permanent chairman of the convention. The delegation voted for Shouse.

Under the unit rule of the State, its sixteen votes were cast for the loser in each instance.

Point in Suit Won By Sears, Roebuck

Demurrer, Outgrowth of Rosenwald's Kindness, Is Overruled.

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—Sears, Roebuck & Co. today won a preliminary victory in its efforts to avoid liability for the pledges made by the late Julius Rosenwald guaranteeing margin accounts of company employes during the stock market crash of 1929.

Judge Michael McKinley overruled a demurrer to the plea of the company disclaiming responsibility for the "private pledge" of its former president.

The demurrer had been filed by a local brokerage firm which had brought suit against the company for $150,000 which, it alleged, represented costs, interest, and principal on a $61,917 margin account held by a Sears, Roebuck employe at the time of the crash. Trial of the case was set for the fall term.

Colombia's Congress Meets in Extra Session

Bogota, Colombia, June 28 (U.P.).—President Enrique Olya Herrer, in a message to the special session of Congress, convened last night, reviewed the Government's policies under extraordinary financial powers and asked Congress to decide whether such powers should be extended after they expire July 31.

President Olaya said the government policy had resulted in relative normalcy in exports due to easy sale of national products at prices leaving some profit, a favorable trade balance, a national budget without a large deficit, satisfactory banking conditions, increase in banking credits, increase in gold reserves, relief for mortgage and other debtors.

Evangelist and Director Lose Suit to Film Writer

Los Angeles, June 28 (A.P.).—A Superior Court judgment yesterday held Aimee McPherson Hutton, evangelist, and J. Roy Stewart, motion picture director, jointly liable for the payment of $10,000 to Harvey H. Gates, scenario writer.

Judge Arthur Crum, commenting on Gates' assertion he was employed by Mrs. Hutton and the director in 1929 to write a script based on the evangelist's life and that he had not been paid, held the proposed film production was a "joint venture" by her and Stewart. Mrs. Hutton, ill in a sanitarium at Palms, was unable to testify personally. The picture was never made.

Wilmington, Del., June 28 (A.P.).—Action to collect an amount it claims is due on two 6 per cent collateral trust notes for $1,060,000 from the Missouri-Kansas Pipe-Line Co., now in receivership, was started in chancery court today by the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Some Convention Sidelights As Democratic Hosts Battle

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith likes hot dogs and lunched on them today during the Democratic convention. The former New York governor and presidential candidate went with Representative O'Connor, of New York, to a hot dog stand in the rear of the stadium.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth came to see the Democratic national convention. Dressed in a cool summer silk print frock, Mrs. Longworth reiterated to a newspaperman her oft-repeated "Of course, I never grant interviews," but generously added: "Obviously, I am here to see the show. I've been going to conventions, both Republican and Democratic, for more than 25 years."

A slip of the tongue on the part of Temporary Chairman Barkley brought a laugh today from the crowded floor and galleries. As debate ended on which of the Louisiana delegations should be seated, the chairman announced: "We will now vote on Louisiana before a debate is perpetrated on Minnesota."

Anxious over her husband's health, Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer, of Washington, D. C., wife of the Attorney General under Wilson, has kept a long vigil just outside the door of the platform committee. "Just let me sit here, and I won't bother a bit," she tells the doorman. And she doesn't. She just does guard duty, a charming and friendly person in a succession of dark print gowns, chatting with reporters, plank-seekers, delegates.

There's one candidate's daughter who doesn't think he has a good chance to get the nomination. Nancy Traylor, 18, watched the show from a box "because father's been mentioned." But when she was asked whether she expected victory, she laughed: "No; there are too many others."

Huey Long's wife is letting the kingfish do all the family's loud speaking. Mrs. Long went to the floor fight on the Louisiana senator's followers as an "acting alternate delegate."

Mrs. Josephus Daniels thinks the wives of public men "are like Hallowe'en pumpkins." "They have eyes and ears," she said, "but if they have any opinions they have to be like the candle sending its light through the pumpkin. If they say anything, everybody thinks it's the husband's idea."

Still predicting Roosevelt would be stopped, Frank Hague, New Jersey leader in the fight against the New York Governor, grumbled a bit over the outcome today. "They must be handing out Cabinet offices," he said, referring to the Roosevelt chieftains. "There is no other way to explain some of the votes."

Mrs. Helen Moore, Texas State legislator, today heartily indorsed the Arizona movement to nominate a woman as Vice President pursly on the merits of the question. "A woman ought to be nominated at every convention until some one of them gets elected to something," she said.

Mrs. Caroline O'Day, of Rye, N. Y., today solved the knotty etiquette question of the social function of the lady escort to the gentleman politician. Having seen Senator Tom Walsh safely to the platform as permanent chairman, Mrs. O'Day sat and held his Panama hat while he made his speech, as correctly useful as a bridesmaid holding the bride's bouquet.

Rooseveltians Reported Seeking Garner Support

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—Reports were circulated tonight that overtures were being made by the Roosevelt forces to Speaker Garner, designed to have him throw his support behind Gov. Roosevelt for the Presidency.

No confirmation of the report came from Roosevelt headquarters, but it was understood the Texan would be considered by the New York Governor as a satisfactory running mate. Garner's attitude was unknown here.

Prisoner Who Escaped In '13 May Be Pardoned

New York, June 28 (A.P.).—Today was William Collins' "happiest moment." A news dispatch said Collins would be granted a full pardon by Gov. Rolfe of California if his claim that he has led an exemplary life since he escaped from San Quentin Prison nineteen years ago is borne out.

Through the thick wire screen that divides prisoner from visitor, Collins could be seen to turn a bit pale, to swallow hard with a choking sound. "You know," he burst out then, "this makes me feel as though I'm walking into heaven."

Briton Wears Straw Hat Before Commons

London, June 28 (A.P.).—Maj. De Spencer Robertson, who up to this time has been a pretty regular member of the Conservative party, gave his associates a shock today when he walked to his seat in the House of Commons wearing a straw hat.

People don't wear straw hats in England and so far as anybody could remember this was the first time one had appeared in the Commons, that deliberative body whose members may wear their hats while the session is in progress.

New York, June 28 (A.P.).—Directors of General Foods Corporation today reduced the quarterly dividend on the capital stock to 50 cents a share from 75 cents. The disbursement is payable August 1, to stock of record July 15.

A statement issued by the company said that although earnings for the first half year would approximate $1.50 a share the board "agreed unanimously on the conservative policy" of a lower rate.

Shouse Accepts Defeat Smilingly; Lauds Walsh

"There can be no doubt in anybody's mind that Senator Walsh will preside with evident fairness and satisfaction over the convention. I want to thank my friends for their generous support and the efforts they made on my behalf."

FOUR DEAD AS RIOTS SPREAD IN GERMANY

Hindenburg's Edict Confuses Militant Political Groups; 44 Arrested.

Berlin, June 28 (A.P.).—Political disorders in various parts of Germany during the last 24 hours piled up a casualty list of 4 dead and more than 37 injured. Forty-four persons were arrested.

Meanwhile President Paul von Hindenburg signed an edict which added to the confusion surrounding regulations restricting the activities of militant political groups.

The edict, to be issued tomorrow, asserts that federal law supersedes the laws of the states, and hence members of militant factions may wear their political uniforms even in the states which have raised objections to them.

At the same time, the decree holds the state governments responsible for maintaining order and reaffirms that, in their discretion, they may ban individual political demonstrations or parades. The edict was interpreted as being of doubtful value so far as the National Socialist hope for unconditional freedom is concerned.

Three Communists were shot dead and seven were seriously injured, with many others slightly hurt, when a funeral cortege of 1,500 persons for a Communist killed by a National Socialist last Friday clashed with police at Stassfurt today.

One Nazi was shot and two were wounded by knives in street rows at Leipsic, and a Nazi was shot from ambush after a rifle shooting match at Stuttgart.

1932 BATHING BEACH MOTHER GOOSE.

LITTLE Miss Muffett
Set out to rough it
All on a summer's day;
The seven-star final
And readers all cried "Hey! Hey!"

* * * *

Mary, Mary, quite contrary,
How does your bathing go?
With little here and little there—

* * * *

Jane and Jill
Went down the hill
To spot marked "Bath Pavilion;"
Soon, tra-la,
Each vertebra
Was colored quite vermillion.

* * * *

Mother, may I go in to swim?
Yes, my sun-tanned daughter;
And if the cops don't run you in
I still will think they oughter.

* * * *

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I'm going swimming, sir," she said;
"You may get by, you daring minx,"
The censor said, "if nothing shrinks!"

* * * *

MARY had a little spine,
It was as white as snow,
And everywhere that Mary went
Her spine was sure to go.

She got a yard of ribbon and
A spool of thread, to boot,
And in a jiffy she had made
Herself a bathing suit.

When mother saw her in the suit
She got the jim-jam-jims
And cried, "The world it knew your lamb,
But must it know your limbs?"

But Mary sat upon the beach,
A naked little rogue,
And soon she had her limbs and spine
The shade that's now in vogue.

SLIGHTLY INVOLVED, BUT—

Gov. Smith announces that he is out to stop the stop Smith movement. This puts his opponents in the class of those who are out to stop the Smith movement to stop the stop Smith movement.

"I carried the repeal banner when the army was small."—Gov. Smith. And when the rest of the politicians were carrying leaky suitcases.

President Hoover asks Europe to disarm, which shows that he still is an optimist.

TWO ADEQUATE REASONS.

IMA Dodo would have had her boy friend bid on the yak at a recent menagerie auction, except that she gets seasick easily and has no yaking costume.

Perhaps the officials gave the fight to Sharkey just to show Schmeling he couldn't intimidate them that way.

GOING DOWN.

The total transactions on the New York Stock Exchange fell to 400,000 shares, a new low for many years, a few days ago. The birthrate of suckers in the country must have decreased to two a minute.

IRISH SENATE VOTES OATH ABOLITION BILL

Amendment Robs Measure of "Teeth," However; People's Ballot Now Sought.

Dublin, June 28 (A.P.).—The abolition bill, which would eliminate the oath of the British crown for Free States, entered a new phase of its tempestous career today when the Senate passed the measure, but attached several strings to it.

A referendum, in which the people of the Free State would be asked whether they wished to form part of the British commonwealth of nations, was asked in a motion tabled in the Dail Eireann today by Frank MacDermot, Republican.

The motion will be discussed by the Dail on Friday, the bill for abolishing the oath probably reaching it on Thursday for further debate. The motion offered in the Dail today asked the executive council to take the necessary legislative and administrative steps for the referendum.

As a result of the Senate action the oath bill does not serve the purpose originally announced by President Eanon de Valera of giving the Free State "complete independence," but carries an amendment that would sterilize it.

(This amendment provided that the abolition of the oath could not occur until the British and Free State governments had reached an agreement on the point. President de Valera has often announced that the Free State has the right to abolish the oath without consulting anybody.)

It was officially announced today that President de Valera would not attend the Ottawa imperial conference next month because of the pressure of business at home. Sean T. O'Kelly, vice president of the executive council, will head the Free State delegation.

Attempt to Block Relief Wheat Hit

Enjoining Kansas Counties From Interfering Is Asked by Judge.

Topeka, June 28 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins ruled today that Kansas counties, seeking to collect taxes assessed against Grain Stabilization Corporaton wheat, should be enjoined from interfering with movement of the grain to the Red Cross or into market channels.

Without makir a final ruling in the tax controversy involving directly and indirectly the right of Kansas and its subdivisions to tax wheat holdings of the Federal Farm Board agency in the State, which on March 1, 1931, amounted to 20,000,000 bushels in storage in 31 counties, Judge Hopkins told Max Wyman, Reed County attorney:

"There isn't one chance in a thousand you are ever going to have a chance to collect. The idea of one branch of the Government tying up another over a mere technicality does not appeal to me. I suppose the Red Cross needs this wheat for starving humanity."

Busy Life Assured Woman Even If She Just Marries

By JOHN J. DALY

MARRIED women and middle-aged single women may have a hard time finding new jobs, but they have little trouble holding the old ones, a recent survey shows.

Conducted by the American Women's Association among 2,000 business and professional women, this investigation discloses the fact that two out of five women are supporting three or more dependents; that the woman who stays with her job has a better guarantee against unemployment than the one who shifts about, and that fewer married women than single women are now without work, especially in cases where the married women's better halves have no jobs.

It is thus seen that a woman, once she is married, is practically assured of permanent employment.

If her husband is working, she is busy keeping the home fires burning, in winter, and in summer, tending to the garden and keeping the grass cropped, so that everything will be lovely when the Old Man comes home.

If her husband is out of work, she not only has to cook his breakfast each morning, prepare his supper at night and serve a light lunch at the noon hour, but she must keep her eyes on the want ad columns in search of a job for him and one for herself in the event he does not get work. The chances are 100 to 1 she must, perforce, go to work and support her husband in the crisis that is apt to confront any married woman at least once in her lifetime. It is the woman who slaves and slaves, and pays and pays. Ah, the woman!

* * * *

A BUSY, active life is the guarantee that almost every bride gets at the altar, if she marries the right man; for, from time immemorial, married women have been the busiest women on earth. They probably will continue to be so until Gabriel blows his horn. They are busy as brides and busy as grandmothers. When they get through taking care of their own homes, as old age creeps on apace, they have been known to move over to the home of a son or a daughter, married, and start all over again.

Busy they are, these married women, till all their housekeeping days are over—at home and abroad—and the flowers are brought in.

To insure perpetual employment, in this world and the next, all any ambitious girl needs do is take on a husband, for better or for worse—and get the worst of it.

NORMAN WHITAKER.

to keep a rendezvous with him twice during her efforts to regain the Lindbergh baby, went to headquarters with her maid and identified him.

At the second rendezvous, in El Paso, Tex., Whitaker is alleged to have told Mrs. McLean she would have to give him $35,000 in "clean" money to reimburse him for the $49,500 in marked bills, which he termed too "hot" to handle.

He was willing to accept a lesser amount, police quoted him as explaining, because Mrs. McLean already had turned over $104,000 to Means.

Asked in the line-up today how much of the $104,000 he received, "The Fox" said:

"I got none of it, but I wish I did."

He merely smiled when asked if he had been double-crossed and remarked he "never admitted knowing Means," who recently was sentenced to fifteen years for his part in the fraud.

He then asked for a lawyer, admittedly unable to raise his bond, said he might waive extradition between now and the time set for his hearing tomorrow. At Washington he is charged with conspiracy and grand larceny.

Whitaker, a short, stout man of 42, is alleged to have told Mrs. McLean at a rendezvous in Aiken, S. C., he had held the Lindbergh baby in his arms, and at El Paso to have announced the child was ill. All this time the child actually was lying dead near the Lindbergh home.

"The Fox," who attended two universities—Pennsylvania and Virginia—said he was a disbarred lawyer now engaged in work on inventions and patents. His record includes two convictions for automobile theft.

Whitaker's Sister Taken Into Custody, But Freed

Dorothy Van Dike Whitaker, 37, sister of Norman T. Whitaker, was arrested by headquarters detectives here yesterday at the request of the Department of Justice. After questioning, she was released. She gave her address as 909 Twentieth street northwest.

Berlin, June 28 (A.P.).—The Reichsrat today approved the 1932 budget, which will be promulgated in an emergency decree as quickly as possible.

Panaman Debt Holiday Is Called Possibility

Panama City, June 28 (U.P.).—The newspaper El Tiempo today mentioned the possibility for a moratorium on Panama's foreign debt, saying this is the subject of much discussion. Secretary of Finance Vallarino said there was nothing official to be said about the matter.

8 BELIEVED KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK

18 Freight Cars Destroyed as Bridge Collapses in Colorado.

Castle Rock, Colo., June 28 (A.P.).—Collapse of a flood-weakened Santa Fe Railroad bridge today was believed to have brought death to eight itineranta aboard a freight train and injury to 40 more.

Eighteen cars of the northbound train were ground into a jumble of twisted metal and splintered wood within a distance of four car lengths. The accident occurred south of Castle Rock.

Railroad men estimated it would take two days to clear away the debris and definitely establish the number of the dead and their identity. One body was found soon after the wreck. A second was recovered later. Damage was estimated at $40,000. A checkup of injured members of a group of men stealing a ride on the freight indicated the number of victims.

Rockefeller Misinformed On Dry Law, Says Woodcock

Claim Drunkenness Has Increased Is Declared by Prohibition Director to Be Very Indefinite; Letter Is Sent to Senator Sheppard.

(Associated Press.)

Commenting upon the recent demand of John D. Rockefeller, jr., for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition director, said yesterday that "it seems obvious he has based his conclusions to some extent upon misinformation."

In a letter to Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, the chief of Federal enforcement challenged the contention that drunkenness has increased and that the speakeasy has replaced the saloon two or three times over.

The letter was placed in the Congressional Record by Mr. Sheppard, a stanch prohibitionist, who explained he had asked Mr. Woodcock's reaction to the Rockefeller statement.

Taking up first the Rockefeller assertion that drunkenness has increased, Mr. Woodcock described it as "a very general statement and by no means definite."

"A survey made of the possible production of illegal liquor in the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930," he said, "indicates that the consumption of liquor in that year was materially less than in the last year of unrestricted manufacture and sale of liquor (1914)."

Saying the statement had been made that the speakeasy has replaced the saloon "not only unit for unit, but probably twofold, if not threefold," Mr. Woodcock described this as "a stock argument of associations opposed to the eighteenth amendment and the national prohibition act for several years."

Surveys in Detroit and New York, he said, show the direct opposite of this statement to be the truth."

"The statement is made in the newspaper report of Mr. Rockefeller's letter," Mr. Woodcock continued, "that a vast army of lawbreakers have been recruited and financed on a colossal scale from the illegal sale of liquor. Again it is a very difficult thing to analyze such a general statement."

He quoted Attorney General Mitchell as having said it has been found not over 20 per cent of the revenue of gangsters comes from that liquor traffic and that the amount is diminishing.

"The statement that many of our best citizens, piqued at what they regarded as an infringement of their private rights, have openly disregarded the eighteenth amendment is, of course, a statement of opinion. It may be, and possibly is, true in some limited instances.

"The statement is made that crime has increased to an unprecedented degree, the inference being that this increase in crime is due to the eighteenth amendment and the national prohibition act. It would take a volume to analyze the crime situation in the United States.

"Possibly two outstanding features of the criminal situation may indicate that the statement referred to is an exaggeration, and may show that the information on which it is based is not wholly accurate." Mr. Woodcock said the record of commitments to Federal prisons for liquor law violations in the past 11 years "naturally shows a marked increase due to the fact that there is a growing tendency on the part of States and State governments to let the Federal Government do most of the enforcement of the national prohibition act. * * *

"The total number of prisoners in the United States in both Federal and State institutions who were there for violation of the liquor laws, does not exceed 5 per cent of the total prison population."

He added that statistics on arrests for drunkenness are misleading because officers now are more strict on the point.

HOOVER WINS POINT ON STATES RELIEF

Part of $300,000,000 Fund Will Be Distributed on Basis of Need.

(Associated Press.)

An agreement bringing the $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill more in conformity with President Hoover's views was reached yesterday by Senate and House conferees as hopes of congressional leaders for adjournment this week-end began to end rapidly.

While progress was made on the huge relief measure, many controversial issues in the measure remained to be settled. In addition there were signs of a filibuster on the Senate floor and unbroken deadlocks continued over some of the vital appropriation bills.

Complicating the situation was the fast approaching deadline marking the end of the fiscal year tomorrow night, with the growing probability that all of the funds for running the Government would not be available by that time.

Relief Agreement.

The most encouraging development of the day was an agreement on the $300,000,000 emergency relief section of the unemployment bill. It was decided that $200,000,000 of the amount will be allocated to the States on the basis of population and the remaining $100,000,000 distributed by President Hoover as he sees fit.

The $300,000,000 figure was contained in the Senate bill. President Hoover has urged allocation on the basis of distress rather than entirely on population. The money is to be raised by adding to the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Determined, if possible, to get the appropriation bills through in time, the Senate approved the billion-dollar Treasury-Postoffice measure, but the Treasury-Postoffice supply bill.

Deadlocks Continue.

More serious, however, were deadlocks in conference over some of the appropriation bills.

Only two of the ten annual supply bills have gone to the White House. Seven now are in conference.

The House late yesterday approved the conference report on the $317,583,591 Navy Department supply bill. Senate approval will send the measure to President Hoover.

This bill as approved is $24,000,000 under budget estimates, but provides $30,000,000 for modernizing the battleships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho. For naval construction it carries the $15,063,000 Senate figure instead of the $23,063,000 House figure.

Hurried consultations were held by congressional leaders with officers of the executive branches of the Government to determine what the situation would be if the appropriation bills were delayed a day or two after the beginning of the fiscal year.

Senate leaders were confident that the bills could be passed by Saturday and some leaders were still hoping against hope that the session could be brought to an end by that time. Senator Watson, the Republican leader, predicted, however, that adjustment would not come before next Wednesday at the earliest.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

As the saying goes "there's a reason" if you are underweight, particularly if you fail to hit the average marker on the scale by more than 10 per cent. And that reason is something for your physician to determine.

Should he fail to find any definite trouble, he will probably proceed to ask you how you sleep, eat, rest, whether you get enough fresh air and live hygienically in general.

The thin individual is usually the high-strung, nervous, worrisome type. Life's little burdens seem so big and weigh so heavily on their shoulders. Every little detail assumes stupendous proportions. Worry, as I have so often mentioned, can do more harm to health and beauty than anything else in the world, more harm than all the medicines and magic creams can correct in twice the time.

In its place take sunshine, all you can, literally and figuratively. And good food. Stimulate your appetite.

Your diet should include at least 500 calories more than the average for the kind of work you do. You can encourage your craving for sweets, starches and tempting sauces. Eat leisurely and well.

My weight gaining regime will help you. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it. But do make sure first that you are in good health, generally.

Elsie Pierce

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Gen. and Mrs. William Wright Harts, of Washington and Griffin Manor, Madison, Conn., took place in New York yesterday at St. Bartholomew's Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clifton Macon. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Louis XVI suite at the Park Lane. The mother of the bride gave her in marriage and she was escorted to the altar by her cousin, Mr. Neil Emerson McMillan.

The bride's gown of pink satin was of Rennaissance inspiration and heightened her resemblance to the Mona Lisa so much commented upon when she was presented at the Court of St. James.

Instead of flowers, Miss Emerson carried a small card case of gray suede studded with fleur de lis in turquoises and pearls, in which was bound a transcript of the wedding ceremony.

The case was a wedding gift from her godmother, Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, of Washington, and once belonged to the late Queen Alexandra, for whom Miss Emerson danced as a child at the birthday party of the Princess Victoria.

Miss Mollie Cullum, who was maid of honor, also wore gray and pink. A cape of gray ruffles topped her gown. She wore a tiny hat of pink velvet violets and carried a muff to match.

Mr. Clement Harts, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The church was decorated with Easter lilies. The bride walked to the altar through an aisle of tall white candles tied at every fourth pew with a sheaf of Easter lilies and white ribbon. Three sets of cathedral candles burned in the sanctuary and the balconies formed an overhanging garden of lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wright Harts, jr., will sail on the S. S. Paris today for Europe and will take a motor trip through the Riviera. Upon their return they will make their home in New York.

A., and Mrs. Fechet, was among the bridesmaids at the marriage yesterday of Miss Elizabeth Nugent, daughter of Col. and Mrs. George A. Nugent, and Mr. Harry Blackiston, of Virginia, which took place at 4:30 p. m. at St. John's Church, Fishers Island, N. Y.

Clean as a Spring Shower

You need have no hesitancy in buying a modern Electric Range. They are cleaner, more convenient and much f-a-s-t-e-r. Manufacturers have improved heating units immensely so that the former slower cooking units used in old ranges have become obsolete.

1. You cook most of the time on stored heat with the current entirely shut off.
2. The average family pays less than $3 per month to cook this most modern way.
3. Food shrinkage is so little that substantial savings are effected in food purchases.

One of the features you will like about Electric Cookery is its absolute cleanliness. There is no flame, so therefore no soot, odor or fumes. Pans never need scouring. They remain so clean that a pure white cloth rubbed over them will show no soil whatever. Your electrical dealer will be glad to explain in detail.

ANCIENT WOMAN'S BONES DISCOVERED

Creature of 1,000,000 Years Ago Had Human Hands but Queer Feet.

Peiping, June 28 (A.P.).—A creature with man's hands, but seemingly some other kind of feet, lived in China 1,000,000 years ago.

A wrist bone and a toe bone to prove this were described today by Dr. Davidson Black, world-famous Canadian anatomist, attached to the Rockefeller Hospital here.

The top of the "Peking woman's" skull was found in Chouhoutien caves in geological formations which scientists identified as 1,000,000 years old.

Dr. Black, summarizing his studies today, said, "There can be no doubt that Sinanthropus (the Peking woman) was of truly human status."

In a report to the Chinese Geological Society, he said:

"This maker of stone artifacts, crude though they must have been, had hands differing in no essential from our own."

Study of what appears to be the terminal toe bone, however, suggests, according to Dr. Black, that the feet of Sinanthropus differed quite widely from the modern type.

Hitchcock Drafts Plank For U. S. Lead on Silver

(Associated Press.)

A proposed plank calling for the United States to take the lead in world action to rehabilitate silver has been submitted to Chairman Hitchcock of the Democratic convention resolutions committee by Senator Pittman (Democrat), Nevada.

Pittman said it had been discussed with most of the Western senators and a number of party stalwarts. He had intended to present it personally at Chicago, but the pressure of senatorial work caused him to abandon a last minute plane flight to the convention.

10 Americans Kidnaped By Chinese Bandit Gang

Hankow, China, June 28 (A.P.).—Ten Americans, five adults and five children, have been kidnaped by Chinese bandits in the vicinity of Kikungshan, in southern Honan province, Chinese reports reaching here today said.

The reports said the bandits, connected with Communist forces which are active in that vicinity, raided Kikungshan Sunday night and carried off the Americans. The arrival of Chinese regular troops prevented the kidnaping of other Americans, it was said.

Weird Witchcraft Tale Investigated in Killing

Victoria, Tex., June 28 (A.P.).—A weird story of witchcraft was being investigated by officers today as the possible explanation of the mysterious slaying of Domingo Cisneros, 22-year-old nursery man. Cisneros was called to the door of his home the night of June 18 and shot to death, allegedly by Henry Eguia, 16.

Sheriff Robert S. Welsiger said he had been informed the youth, an epileptic, had been told by a woman fortune teller Cisneros had cast a spell over him and he would not recover until he killed Cisneros.

Girl Says Hutton Vowed To Marry Aimee's Money

Los Angeles, June 28 (A.P.).—A pretty former owner of a pajama shop, testifying that David L. Hutton sang out "I'll bet I do" when she asked him if he wanted to marry Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, for her money, threw a crowded courtroom into turmoil at Myrtle St. Pierre's $200,000 love suit here today.

No sooner had Miss Bettie Odielle, the pajama shop girl, uttered the startling testimony than attorneys leaped to their feet shouting objections, spectators stood and stared and two jurors rose to their feet to the tempo of gales of laughter.

Judge Lester Roth hammered for silence while he ordered Miss Odielle's testimony stricken from the records of the trial of Miss St. Pierre's breach of promise suit against Hutton, choir singing husband of Mrs. McPherson.

An attorney for the Pasadena nurse, Lorin Andrews, protested Judge Roth's order on grounds that he sought to show a motive for Hutton's alleged jilting of Miss St. Pierre to marry the evangelist. Hutton's lawyers shouted their objections and the judge upheld their cries of "incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial."

"Dave and I were working on an Olympic games march," Miss Odielle testified. "He came in one day and I said, 'I suppose you don't want to fool around with this Olympian march when you have bigger and higher things to do, like Mrs. McPherson's work at the temple.'

"'I've got to get bigger money,' Dave remarked," the pajama shop girl continued. "I said, 'I guess you want to marry Aimee for her money,' and he said, 'I'll bet I do.'"

PROSECUTION HALT IS CALLED BY U. S. IN TRIAL OF RAICHLE

The prosecution testimony ended rather unexpectedly yesterday after Miss Helen L. Schneider, one-time private secretary to G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the F. H. Smith Co., had concluded her testimony. Miss Schneider said that in the Ambassador Hotel, in New York City, Raichle had told her that he knew some of the documents introduced in Pitts' defense in his trial for conspiracy to embezzle were false, but that he also said he didn't know they were all false.

Continuing, Miss Schneider, on cross-examination, admitted that Pitts, in the presence of John H. Edwards, a former vice president of the Smith company, had cautioned her against letting Raichle know that the so-called authorizations and receipts which Pitts hoped would clear him of conspiracy, were made up just before his trial.

Following that announcement Mr. Moore said that he would today make an effort to secure a directed verdict from Justice Letts on the theory that the Government had not established its case. If the motion for a directed verdict is overruled, Raichle's side will be presented to the court.

Edwards, now serving a three-year sentence, was on the stand yesterday. He said Raichle knew of the spurious papers.

Missouri River Stretch Opened After 50 Years

Kansas City, June 28 (A.P.).—Steamboat whistles have signalized the formal opening the Missouri River to navigation between Kansas City and St. Louis after more than 50 years of disuse.

Two towboats, the Ashburn and Mark Twain, bearing an official party from St. Louis for inspection of the work of military engineers on the "Big Muddy," churned in to dock at the foot of Main street. Local craft shrieked a welcome.

Spanish Army Head Relieved of Duties

"Forgot" to Mention Republic in Talk to Troops; Others Dropped.

Madrid, June 28 (U.P.).—Gen. Manuel Goded, chief of staff of the Spanish army, was relieved of his duties today because he "forgot" to mention the 14-month-old republic when addressing his troops.

The government's action, which created a sensation in military circles partly because of recently frustrated monarchist plots, was brought about by the resentment of a stanch republican officer, Lieut. Col. Julio Mangada, who suffered public rebuke and arrest at the hands of Gen. Goded because he protested the general's attitude.

The other high officers, Gen. Rafael Villegas, commander of the First Army Division, and Gen. Federico Caballero, commander of an infantry brigade, also were relieved of their commands by the war ministry. Gen. Carlos Masquelet was appointed new chief of staff.

SANDINO AND FOES WILL DISCUSS PEACE

Aguado, Vice President of Nicaragua, and Rosendo Arguello.

Dr. Espinosa has telegraphed from Managua accepting the invitation, and the reply of the others is expected shortly.

The immediate object of the conference is the nomination of a single liberal candidate from among these five. If a compromise on this point could be reached, the next step would be a declaration of an armistice pending elections, and ultimately a final peace in Nicaragua.

Limited Monarchy in Siam.

Bangkok, Siam, June 28 (A.P.).—A constitution providing for a limited monarchy, with a temporary dictatorship by the Peoples party, was promulgated today after it had been signed by King Prajadhipok. The document provides that the dictatorship shall be replaced by suffrage when the people have been educated in the responsibilities of self-government.

LINDBERGH DOUBTS CURTIS CONTACTED KIDNAPING GANG

posed the prosecution would take—contending that Curtis invented a fantastic tale of bogus negotiations and hindered the police search for the kidnapers by diverting attention from it.

The last-minute surprise move taken by the State yesterday, when Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, jr., declared the State would prove "beyond reasonable doubt" that Curtis was in actual contact with the kidnapers or their representatives, left observers with confused opinions.

The move also brought a storm of protest from the defense, which complained the defendant was not being tried for the same alleged offense which caused his arrest after he typed a confession last month that the characters in his stories were all "creatures of a distorted mind."

Col. Lindbergh testified Curtis told him he had been shown some of the money the colonel authorized Dr. John F. Condon to pay to supposed kidnapers as ransom. But Col. Lindbergh didn't see the bills. He related how Curtis had described members of the gang in detail. But Lindbergh never saw or met them.

Curtis, too, he testified, described minutely the boat on which the baby was supposed to be held captive, and its German nurse. But Col. Lindbergh never saw the boat, despite repeated trips by sea in search of it.

Edmund B. Bruce, of Elmira, N. Y., followed Lindbergh to the stand and surprised the courtroom on more than one count.

Bruce, who entered the case as friend of Curtis and driver of the car which took them on many trips, said Curtis one night in New York pointed out to him a man he said was the "John" to whom Dr. Condon gave the ransom money in a Bronx cemetery.

Curtis Branded "Liar."

"That is John," Curtis was quoted as saying.

Bruce, who declined to come to court as defense witness, but willingly appeared for the prosecution, related that Curtis had obtained $1,000 from Mrs. Bruce by misrepresentation, and in reference to this called Curtis a "liar."

A moment later, pressed by the defense, Bruce was saying:

"I do not think he (Curtis) is guilty under this indictment."

But when the defense sought to get testimony from him to support their contention of police duress used on Curtis, they failed.

"You got your idea of Jersey justice from treatment of Curtis?"

Negotiations to Sell Story.

"Did you talk of the matter of money with Col. Lindbergh?"

"I think I did. He said he could be helpful in the sale of Mr. Curtis' story to a decent newspaper."

"Didn't you suggest to Mr. Curtis hard cold facts could be dull and suggest a fictional lies, story?"

"Never."

Bruce said he had induced Curtis to go to Col. Lindbergh in the first place, when Curtis told him about being approached by a supposed kidnaper representative. He told of seeing the man Curtis called "Dynamite" also on one occasion, but he did not speak to him.

William Edward Haskell, of the New York Herald-Tribune, business department, followed Bruce. He told of being approached by Curtis and Bruce about sale of a story on the return of the baby. The men wanted a guarantee of $25,000, Haskell testified. He said no written contract was made.

Curtis asked that a $25,000 advance from the syndicate proceeds of his story be arranged, Haskell said, adding, "I told him if his story wasn't worth $25,000 it wasn't worth a cent."

Man Claims He Helped Kidnap Lindbergh Baby

Waag-Neustadtl, Czechoslovakia, June 28 (A.P.).—An unidentified man claiming to be an American citizen, but refusing to reveal his name, surrendered to police here today, saying he was one of seven persons who kidnaped and murdered the Lindbergh baby.

The seven, he said, went to London after the murder. There they received money from America, he added, and went to Paris, buying an automobile and trying to reach Soviet Russia. On the way he mysteriously lost his companions, the man said.

It's pretty hard to be around a Chesterfield and not want one. That tempting aroma tells you the truth. It says . . . "Here's a milder cigarette. Here's one that tastes better."

In fact, there isn't any way for a cigarette to be purer, milder or better tasting.

No wonder so many millions of smokers say "THEY SATISFY."

ROOSEVELT HOLDS FAST.

Gov. Roosevelt has a tight grip on the Democratic national convention so far as a majority is concerned. By avoiding what might have been a disastrous contest over the two-thirds rule or a modification of it, the Roosevelt managers held their ranks intact and won over the opposition in the matter of contested delegations and in the election of a permanent chairman.

In repudiating Jouett Shouse the supporters of Gov. Roosevelt made sure that the permanent chairman would not be inimical to their candidate. It was a bold move to make, in view of the fact that Mr. Shouse had been recommended by the committee on arrangements, whose report had been tacitly approved by Gov. Roosevelt. But the majority of delegates evidently concluded that Mr. Shouse was too closely identified with the Raskob-Smith element to be regarded as strictly impartial. Mr. Raskob's eulogy of Mr. Shouse on the opening day doubtless confirmed this opinion. After this point had been once raised a contest over the chairmanship was unavoidable.

While the supporters of Senator Walsh and Senator Walsh himself spoke generously of Mr. Shouse's work during the interval since the last election, the fact remains that the defeat of Mr. Shouse constitutes a repudiation of the Raskob dictatorship of the Democratic party. In the impending struggle over the presidential nomination the bitterness of the Raskob-Smith forces will, of course, be intensified by the defeat of Raskob's lieutenant. Every expedient will be sought to prolong the balloting in the hope that Roosevelt's majority will disappear. Leaders of the anti-Roosevelt forces are negotiating feverishly in the hope of concentrating upon one man who can capture the imagination of delegates and win the nomination.

The change of rules whereby the nomination will precede adoption of the platform is favorable to Roosevelt. A controversy over the wet plank might have worked to the advantage of Al Smith and his allies and greatly to the disadvantage of Roosevelt; but after the nomination has been made it is not to be expected that the nominee will object to the plank, whatever it may be. Moreover, the nominee will be advised beforehand regarding this plank, and will be in a position to compel its modification if he so desires.

In his address accepting the permanent chairmanship Senator Walsh gave a summary of the political situation from the Democratic viewpoint. It was a strong presentation of his party's case, if it be admitted that the present condition of the Government and the country is due to the incapacity of the Republican party. Senator Walsh mentioned some of the principal items in the category of world and American adversity and, of course, drew the conclusion that the Democratic party is about to be charged by the people with the tremendous task of setting everything right. He did not, however, enter into details as to what policies the Democratic party should adopt in dealing with national conditions.

The way is now cleared for the struggle between Roosevelt and the field. There is no indication that opposition delegates are drifting over to Roosevelt because of his possession of a majority. The first ballot promises to reveal that Roosevelt will have about 150 votes less than two-thirds. Favorite sons will be complimented by the votes of their States. The second ballot should show whether the opposition is concentrating its forces or whether delegates are inclined to join the Roosevelt procession. Since the opposition has conflicting interests in its own ranks and since Roosevelt has held his forces intact in the winning of three preliminary skirmishes, it does not seem probable that a prolonged deadlock will occur. The strong lead of a candidate is a powerful magnet, drawing support from delegates who wish above all things to be recorded on the winning side, in order that if and when the time comes for distributing the loaves and fishes, such "lifelong loyalty" will be duly rewarded.

WON'T BUY DISARMAMENT.

A great deal of confusion has arisen as to the attitude of the United States toward disarmament. In some circles the Government has been represented as being so anxious to see the Geneva conference achieve real disarmament that it is willing to enter a consultative pact or reduce the war debts to induce Europe to scrap its armaments. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Much of this confusion grows out of the fact that the American people are not willing to shoulder the burdens of the last war while European countries remain heavily armed. That attitude is entirely logical and sound. If Europe can afford to maintain gigantic military and naval establishments, Europe can afford to pay its debts incurred in the last war. It is a sound principle of charity that no relief should be administered when the would-be beneficiary is quite capable of relieving himself by making a little personal sacrifice. The idea of canceling debts of the last war while Europe is squandering money on excessive armaments sounds preposterous to American taxpayers, and they may be expected to remain unalterably opposed to it.

It does not follow, however, that the Government would consider a proposition to trade its credits against Europe for disarmament. Naturally, the American people would like to see Europe disarm, as the United States has done. But the taxpayers of this country have no desire to bribe Europe into disarming. Any reduction of armaments against the will of the reducing nations would be an insincere gesture that would accomplish nothing.

Only two chief arguments for disarmament are valid: World peace would be enhanced thereby, and an economic burden would be lifted from taxpayers everywhere. If these arguments, advanced by President Hoover in announcing his plan for a one-third cut in all military forces above police needs, are not strong enough to induce the world to throw aside part of its weapons, then the unfortunate taxpayers of Europe must continue to stagger under their load. If the disarmament conference should achieve effective results, economic conditions would improve, and adjustment of international problems of finance would be facilitated, but no proposal for a trade on war debts and armaments would be worth the paper on which it was written.

All that may be said with respect to war debts in this connection applies with equal force to a security pact. The United States will neither assume the burdens of the last war nor agree to fight and finance the next European war in order to secure disarmament. World-wide disarmament would not be worth such a price to the American people. It is incredible that some European statesmen continue to think in terms of consultative and security pacts and debt cancellation as the fulcrum on which progress in disarmament must turn.

DEADLOCK AT LAUSANNE.

Hope that anything tangible or constructive might come out of the conference at Lausanne has been virtually abandoned. There is talk of postponing the sessions until fall, in the hope, apparently vain, that developments will offer a solution of the reparations problem. In the meantime the French and German delegates are strengthening their respective positions, thus making the deadlock more secure.

No mutually agreeable solution of the reparations tangle can be made at this time. Germany insists that all reparations must be canceled. If the government of Chancellor von Papen should yield on this point, its decision would be repudiated in the forthcoming German election. If Premier Herriot should agree to a cancellation of the war tribute from Germany his ministry would be immediately upset by the Chamber of Deputies. Public opinion in the two countries is deadlocked. It is difficult to see how any headway toward a definite solution can be made during the present conference.

When the gathering at Lausanne first met it agreed to postpone any payments due on the European intergovernmental debts so long as the conference remained in session. This agreement paves the way for a face-saving gesture on the part of both the French and German delegates. Germany can not complain so long as she is not required to pay, and France has definitely recognized the inability of Germany to resume payments now. The conference might take an indefinite recess, which could be construed in France as a mere postponement, and in Germany as tacit cancellation of all future reparations.

Of course, the real object of this procedure is to bring new pressure to bear upon the United States for the cancellation of the European war debts. The delegates at Lausanne have their eyes on the American election in November, hoping that the attitude of Congress and the White House may be changed. Undoubtedly they will be disappointed. France and Germany will then have to face each other again.

BECK ON BUREAUCRACY.

Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, has added another book to his long list of works. The title of his latest product is provocative—"Our Wonderland of Bureaucracy."

America's present form of government, Mr. Beck believes, is in danger of "eventual disappearance * * * under the encroachments of Federal bureaus." This will come to pass, he says, because of "the American people's apathy, their willingness to accept an apparent immediate gain at the sacrifice of a principle, and their lost appreciation of these moral values." He continues: "Each generation of Americans, to gain some immediate and practical advantage, will sacrifice some remaining principle of the Constitution, until that noble edifice will one day become as the Parthenon, beautiful in its ruins, but nevertheless a useless and deserted temple of liberty."

Mr. Beck, in attacking bureaucracy, performs a public service. If it is true that "the taxpayers are directly or indirectly supporting at least 10,000,000 people in the Government, Federal, State and municipal," and that these 10,000,000 officeholders have a deleterious influence, there is obviously urgent need of reform. However, skilled analysis of the problem is imperative before the fatal axe is set in motion. When the people develop the willingness to simplify and purify their several governing institutions, bureaucracy will die a natural death. If Mr. Beck is correct in his judgment that the people are apathetic, it follows that they are not ready to expend the energy necessary to recover greater freedom from bureaucracy. By and large the masses get the kind of government they deserve. They have power to rule their rulers, but nobody can force them to exercise their power.

The thoughtful portion of the American public should read Mr. Beck's book. It is an arsenal of ideas, and stimulating in tone and content. A valuable publication, brought out at a critical moment, it deserves a welcome at the hands of optimists and pessimists alike. It has values for both schools.

WHY A CONSTITUTION

By F. DU MONT SMITH,
Chairman, Committee on American Citizenship, American Bar Association.

To understand why we have a Constitution and why it must be in writing, we must understand the conditions that existed when the Constitution was framed. When the thirteen colonies achieved their independence from Great Britain each became a sovereign independent State. Little Delaware, for instance, had the same power to make war and peace, send ambassadors to other countries, make alliances, raise an army or build a navy that any country in the world had, and these States were very jealous of their sovereignty.

The Continental Congress was not a congress such as we now have. It was simply a meeting of ambassadors from sovereign States allied for the purpose of carrying on the War of Independence. It was very much like the congress of allied ambassadors which met at Paris during the great war. It could not make any law affecting the people, it had no executive, no judiciary and no power of taxation. It could recommend measures to the separate States and ask for contributions, which were seldom paid.

In 1781 a new government, the Confederation, was adopted, and it was little better. It was simply a league of independent States dissoluble at the will of any member. The vote in its Congress was by States and it required the vote of nine States to adopt any measure. It had no executive, no judiciary and no power of taxation. It existed solely by contributions paid by the different States and was bankrupt and moribund from the beginning.

Somehow we muddled through. By 1787 the condition of the country had become so deplorable, the weakness of its government so apparent, an object of contempt at home and derision abroad, that the great men of the country met in the constitutional convention in May, 1787. That convention was the greatest body of political minded men that ever sat in a single chamber.

It contained 25 or 30 members who would have taken front rank in any parliamentary body in the world then or since. It contained a half-dozen who were the peers of any statesmen that England has produced in its long parliamentary history. It determined to create a true national government, "an indissoluble union of indestructible States," with all the powers necessary to a true national government, a Nation and not a mere league or confederacy of States. To accomplish that end, it examined all governmental powers, and determined what were necessary to form a union, not only of the States but of the people; a national government, such powers as those to make peace and war, coin money, to maintain an army and navy, to handle our relations with foreign countries, and so on. These powers it conferred upon the United States of America, and it forbade the several States to exercise any of these powers.

But, mark this: The powers conferred upon the National Government by the Constitution and the first ten amendments and the powers taken from the State governments were purely governmental powers. No right, privilege or immunity of the citizen of any of these States was infringed upon or impaired in any way. Every right, privilege and immunity of the individual that he had under his State government remained exactly the same under the new Government, with many added safeguards provided by the first ten amendments. The rights of individual liberty and personal freedom that existed under the Constitution as it was formed and these amendments were left intact. Such encroachments as have been made upon these rights have been by recent, hasty, ill-advised and improvident amendments that tend to the destruction of the whole plan and purpose of our Government as it was formed.

The people, who are the fountain of all political power, deciding to establish a national government, took from the States, which they had created, certain governmental powers. It is a kind of tri-partite agreement between the people, their State governments, and their National Government, and necessarily it had to be put in writing; and that is why we have a written Constitution.

Danse Fantastique.

POST HASTE.

Well, it didn't take long to demonstrate, did it, that it wasn't good politics to put Roosevelt strength to a test on disputatious, non-Rooseveltian questions?

What a crucial week, with all the world waiting for the adjournment of the four political conventions in Chicago, Washington, Geneva and Lausanne!

If Al Smith had added a few flowers of praise to the bouquet presented by Mr. Raskob the Roosevelt convention might have sidetracked Mr. Shouse unanimously.

The king's motto, "I am Siam," may have to be altered a bit, but Prajadhipok sets a record as the first ruler to come back and capture a revolution.

Charlie Chaplin's idea that he brought home from his trip around the world is that the allied nations issue a big bunch of international fiat money and pay themselves all that Germany owes. A lot of us would go further and let the butcher and grocer get together with other creditors and liquidate all our personal debts.

France, Holland and Switzerland now have gold for more than 100 per cent coverage of notes in circulation. Who's hoarding now?

Not being drafted for platform drafting or convention attendance, it would seem that Senator Borah had time to consider Judge Wilkerson's confirmation.

Mexico is that old-fashioned country where they still have railroad strikes.

At last France and Germany have reached a definite understanding at Lausanne—neither side will concede a single point toward a compromise.

The first vote of the Democratic convention, seating the Louisiana delegation of Huey Long, was interesting as the first show-down of Roosevelt strength—638 to 514—not two-thirds, but a very comfortable majority by 124. By this test vote Pennsylvania delegates were for Roosevelt, 55 to 20; New York was opposed to Roosevelt, 85 to 29, and Illinois 50 to 7.

Mr. Shouse will long ruminate upon that tactical error he made in asking for uninstructed delegates.

Halfway between a majority and two-thirds, the Roosevelt rooters didn't act as though they were quitters.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WARRIOR.

On dark, gray, dismal mornings, when the task
A little more of courage seems to ask.
A little more of strength of hand and will,
Go bravely forward to the battle still.
Remembering against the blows that fall,
Not to fight on is easiest of all.

To drop the burden on your shoulders laid
Because the way is long and you're afraid
Requires no manhood. You may step aside
And have it said within your courage died,
But those who follow you must brave the hurt
Of carrying on the battle you desert.

Stand up to life! What if the times are ill?
Men can repair their fortunes if they will.
Mourn not so bitterly an empty purse.
To have an empty heart and mind is worse.
'Tis easy, fearing danger, to take flight,

If He Makes No Effort to Get More Freight, His Cargo Space Is Filled.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SUPPOSE you are traveling on the highway in company with a stranger, your common destination a hamlet called Grassville.

You come to a fork in the road and there see a great sign bearing the legend: "The right fork leads to Grassville, home of contented people. Five miles to the city limits."

You read the sign and repeat its message aloud: "The right fork leads to Grassville."

"You're wrong," says the stranger. "It's the left fork. I've heard a lot of people describe this road."

In vain you point to the sign. The stranger can't read. And no words of yours have power to penetrate his skull. His mind is made up.

What can you do? You know the question isn't debatable. You know the evidence is so convincing as to place the matter beyond dispute. But that evidence means nothing to the stranger because he lacks the wit to understand it. There is nothing you can do but turn to the right and leave him to follow his ignorance.

Your opinion of the stranger isn't flattering. But are you quite sure that you are unlike him?

Your own opinions and convictions, no matter how or where obtained, are very dear to you.

When you disagree with a person whose learning and experience are greater than yours, does his possession of evidence that is unknown to you prompt you to accept his guidance?

Or do you say: "I've got as much right to my opinion as he has to his."

Perhaps you have a "right" to disagree with the dictionary, but you can't learn much that way.

Everybody is ignorant. But there are two kinds of ignorance—one occasioned by misfortune and the other by stupidity.

Those who are ignorant for want of opportunity to learn will accept instruction with eagerness and gratitude.

Those who are ignorant because of stupidity must die in their ignorance.

They have reached their limit. It is discontent that inspires all progress, and they can learn nothing because they are content in the comforting belief that they know it all.

You will keep on growing while you preserve an humble eagerness to learn; the moment you develop a stubborn pride of opinion, you are ripe for the harvest.

Two Pork Barrels.

Kansas City Times.

The national budget already carries appropriations for all the public works which the administration believes can be properly carried on at this time.

The Senate bill wisely provides for an additional $1,500,000,000 of Reconstruction Corporation debentures to enable the corporation to lend directly for private projects, like a new Hudson River toll tunnel, that can pay for themselves, and so will repay the Government. But the Senate evidently has attempted a compromise with the House huge pork barrel bill authorizing the expenditure of $1,200,000,000 on extravagant public works.

The Senate proposes a $500,000,000 pork barrel instead of a $1,200,000,000 pork barrel. Both proposals are extravagant, wasteful, burdensome on the country and would retard rather than hasten business recovery.

Hastings, He Stays Put.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The same meeting of the Senate which found Senator Borah brought to the boiling point also provided the highest example of party regularity. It was Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, who hoisted the colors of true blue. Said the senator from the Whipping Post State: "I subscribe to the Republican platform, regardless of what it says." There you are. No hemming or hawing. Not a question. Not a doubt. No ifs, no ands, no buts. If he likes it, all right. If he doesn't, well, all right anyway. Senator Hastings swallows his party platforms, bolts, beams and braces. The most exacting political boss could not wish for greater loyalty than that.

A Case of All or None.

Detroit News.

There is something pathetically promising in the response of the world to President Hoover's proposal that a one-third cut immediately be made in armaments. It would save $10,000,000,000, urges the President. "We're for it; it's a capital idea," at once respond more than a score of nations. Of course, there are the usual reservations and acceptances "in principle," with requests for time out to discuss details.

But the disappointing hitch in this, as in all such proceedings, lies in the fact that the nations are not sincerely prepared to come clean. They are not in position to act in the spirit of good neighbors.

In this, as in all other human affairs, true concord is a matter of the heart and not of words. To no purpose at all will be specious declarations without unity. There is danger that international records will become encumbered with meaningless "agreements," ineffective because insincere. Whatever is done in response to such a proposal as that of the President must have the sincere acquiescence and cooperation of every nation on the globe.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Curious" Wants to Know if Senators and Representatives Who Attend the Convention Get Paid When Important Legislation Awaits Action in the Capitol.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will you kindly state whether those senators and representatives who, during this most important week of the session, have gone to the Chicago convention draw their pay from the Federal Treasury while absent?

I note, for example, that the chairman of the conference committee is among those in Chicago, when to that committee is again to be referred the very important economy bill. As to being "paired" this would seem to me as prejudging a bill, and leave the inference that no matter what facts may be adduced or argument presented, my vote and that of my pair is unalterable.

We common folk (taxpayers), are very ignorant on some subjects, but, of course, vote as our fathers did.

CURIOUS.

Quail in Page County Adopt Novel Labor-Saving Method of Feeding Young—Farmers Had Better Watch Their Cherry Crop.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The game wardens and farmers in Page County seem to be surprised at the fact that the quail are feeding their young by dropping cherries to them from a tree. There is nothing surprising about it. This is a day of labor-saving devices. Evidently the quail in Page County have more sense than their other feathered relations. Instead of making fifteen or twenty trips from the ground to the cherry tree in order to feed the brood of hungry young, the mother bird simply instructs the young to remain under the tree. The birds must obey or go hungry. Then the mother bird flies up into the tree, looks over the cherries, selects the ripest of the lot, nips them off one at a time, and drops them to her waiting brood, thereby saving time and a great deal of energy. When word of this labor-saving spreads among the feathered folk the farmers had better look out for their cherry crop.

If this mode of feeding young birds spreads, the farmers had better develop a new twig for cherries that will wire them to the branches. Otherwise the birds will get all the cherries. Maybe the quail that are hunted every fall have adopted this trick to get even with mankind.

Roosevelt Will Have Support of Democrats if He Is Nominated by Two-thirds Vote.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If Gov. Roosevelt receives the nomination by the two-thirds rule he will probably be supported by most Democrats in November, but it does not follow by any means that the strongest and most capable man for the office will have received the nomination. Those who claim that Roosevelt is entitled to the nomination because he has a majority of the delegates instructed to vote for him do not understand the game of politics, because it does not mean that a majority of the voters had anything to do with the instructing of the delegates.

Take Virginia, for instance: There the delegates were instructed to vote for former Gov. Byrd. While practically every Democrat of Virginia is for Gov. Byrd, the voters of the State had absolutely no voice in this selection. A great many of the counties did not even hold a convention of any sort. To the contrary, a few politicians from each county attended the convention at Richmond and it was then and there the delegates to the national convention at Chicago were selected. Will anyone contend that had this Richmond convention instructed its delegates to vote for Gov. Roosevelt such a selection would have represented the wishes of the rank and file of voters in that State?

On the other hand, if the Roosevelt advocates succeed in their attempt to change the two-thirds rule and Roosevelt is nominated by a majority, millions of Democrats all over the country will refuse to vote for him in November, and the party will be split more than it was in 1928—split beyond any possibility of success.

Schmeling-Sharkey Bout—Was It a Prize Fight or Not?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It surprises me that no one, so far as I have read the sporting pages, has got a plain slant on the mix-up of opinion in regard to the Schmeling-Sharkey decision. So I will have to butt in with the guess that it all depends on the question, "When is a prize fight?"

It may be that the Schmeling-Sharkey fight judges, being too much influenced by their technical complexes, looked on from the viewpoint of a boxing match.

The fed-up-on-sports writers and the bloodthirsty cash customers may have aired it up for what it may have been supposed to be, a prize fight. What they saw was that Schmeling seemed to be full of fight, while Sharkey stood him off, scoring irrelevant points. And, therefore, with their blood warmed almost to fighting heat, they felt that Schmeling should have won the decision, no matter how often Sharkey hit him on the smaller.

But what was it anyhow? As a prize fight, was it a semi-sparring exhibition? Or if it really was a prize fight, how explain the fact that the loser is awarded the first prize of $233,000?

To simplify the sport for the satisfaction of the cash customers it looks as if the proposed fight-to-a-finish rule must be adopted.

Employe at Farm Is Dead After Fall

His skull fractured by a fall on a concrete walk, Thomas R. Jennings, 65, an employe at the farm of J. P. Shackelford, near Glenmont, Md., died last night in Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, Md. Following an investigation by Montgomery County police, his death was attributed to accident.

Mr. Jennings formerly resided near Fredericksburg, Va., and about three months ago moved to the Shackelford farm. He had been a friend of the Shackelfords when they went to Montgomery County from near Fredericksburg about three years ago. The family had been away all afternoon, and after their return Mr. Jennings rose to go out to the barn and milk the cows.

Some time later, Allen Shackelford, 22, a son, found Jennings lying on the concrete sidewalk, near the house, his head crushed. He carried the man to the hospital. The body was removed to the Colonial Funeral Home, Rockville, Md. Mr. Jennings is survived by a sister, Mrs. Scott Stevens, Brook Road, Spotsylvania County, Va., and two brothers, William Jennings, of Chancellor, Va., and another brother at Fredericksburg, Va.

Malfeasance Laid To Police Justice

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 28.—William E. Baldwin, police magistrate at Millersville, Fourth District of Anne Arundel County, today was presented by the county grand jury on a charge of malfeasance in office.

This makes the fourth police justice to be presented on a like charge within the past year, the inquest having devoted a large part of its time to investigating the conduct of police officials in general.

The charge against Magistrate Baldwin is based upon his permitting bail for H. B. Mills, arrested for attacking a woman with criminal intent. Mills a few days later was found dead at his former home at Owensburg, Ky., the authorities attributing his death to the accidental discharge of a gun he was cleaning.

WORKMAN CRUSHED BY TELEPHONE POLE

Crossarm Prevents Death of C. & P. Employe in Falls Church.

Although saved from probable death by the crossarm of the telephone pole on which he was working in Falls Church, Va., yesterday afternoon when it fell, crushing him beneath, Arthur J. Potter, of Park Lane, Va., employe of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of Virginia, received serious injuries.

At Garfield Hospital, where he was taken after treatment in the office of Dr. C. A. Ransome in Falls Church, physicians said he was suffering from severe bruises of the face and head and internal injuries.

Potter was on the pole, 30 feet from the ground, when it snapped at the base. It swung around on him and only the crossarm kept its full weight from crushing him. Firemen were called to protect bystanders from high voltage wires which were snapped off by the falling pole.

Front Royal Bank Head Found Dead

Death of Dr. Creasy Is Attributed to Heart Ailment.

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., June 28.—Dr. Randolph Tucker Creasy, 42, president of the Citizens National Bank here and a prominent dentist of this part of the State, was found dead in his office early tonight by friends investigating his nonappearance at his home.

The banker-dentist apparently had died of a heart ailment. A treatise on diseases of the heart lay open on a table near which his body was slumped in a chair. Several months ago he was forced to suspend activities because of a digestive and paralytic attack.

Dr. Creasy was unmarried. He is survived by his mother and three brothers. Besides his banking and dental connections, he was prominent in Masonic circles. Funeral services had not been arranged last night.

WALTERS AGAIN HEADS B.E.F.

Additional police were stationed at the various camps. The principal encampment—Camp Marks—was a seething mass of humanity as the men excitedly discussed the dramatic turn of events.

Runners were stationed every 50 paces between Camp Marks and the headquarters to warn against any attempt to unseat the executive committee, which some of the men complain has hindered rather than helped in shaping the course of the army.

Earlier in the evening, the executive committee, forced into action by the demands of 7,000 men for a rank and file election, called an election for Friday. Soon after Waters appeared at Camp Marks. As if by prearrangement, he appeared at the fringes of a crowd which was listening to Doak E. Carter plead for the election of Waters.

Acclaimed as Chief.

He was brought to the platform and the crowd, estimated at 12,000, acclaimed him chief. Camp Marks veterans were augmented by delegates from the other camp. All was in readiness for the election. Delegates from other camps bore credentials from their constituents, deputizing them as their spokesmen.

Waters' coup was staged in anticipation of similar action on the part of either Thomas or George Alman, who served as leader during Waters' illness.

Thomas appeared at national headquarters and protested vehemently against what he called a "drum head election." He said such procedure "would give the army a black eye in the eyes of the American people." When he arrived an order for the confirmatory election was being written, and he agreed to the election today.

George Kleinholtz, who was elected temporary chairman yesterday when Thomas Kelly resigned to take a job in Camden, signed the order for today's election so as to make last night's procedure "legal and binding and to prevent possible criticism."

Wants Full Control.

Waters, who was ousted once in a rump election, then resigned, will resume leadership today, if he wins the election. "I accept the leadership," he said at the meeting in Camp Marks, "only if I will be leader in every sense of the word."

The move by the leaders of 7,000 of the veterans to force the hand of the executive committee to reorganize the army came simultaneously with the extension by the Senate of a helping hand to those veterans who wish to return home. The upper house passed a resolution providing that the Government lend the former service men sufficient money for transportation home and for subsistence while en route.

To fend off the impending food crisis, the Bonus Army last night issued a frantic appeal "to the American people" to send food "so that our sorely tried and true comrades may not suffer the pangs of hunger." That a crisis in the food problem is imminent was indicated last night as the army announced food on hand to last only until tonight. The only prospect of food for the rest of the week is the bread which will be baked and donated by Washington bakeries. Enough Farm Board wheat has been given by the Red Cross to make bread for another week.

Entry of the district attorney's office into the tangled affairs of the veterans was assured last night when Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, chief of police, suggested that Communists who complained to him of ill treatment at the hands of the veterans present their cases to the district attorney for possible prosecution.

Glassford Hits Brutality.

"The men have been going too far in their zeal to eliminate Reds," Gen. Glassford said, and issued an order to the force to prevent recurrences of brutality on the part of the veterans and to assure the same protection to Communists as to any other people.

There may be more Capitol demonstrations if the plans of the veterans are successful. A series of meetings was begun in the camps last night to urge the veterans to frequent the Capitol and show the legislators that they intend to remain here until the bonus is paid.

"Go in droves and stay there all day," the speakers told them.

Under plans made last night for the elections, a clear majority would be necessary to elect a candidate. In the event that none gets a majority, the two highest would contest for the office.

Irked by the constant changing of leaders, a group of members of the legislative committee of the army met yesterday and demanded that Temporary Commander in Chief Kleinholtz issue a call for an election of a leader to serve until a convention names a permanent leader. They also demanded the appointment of a general committee to work in concert with the newly elected commander in chief to act as the national executive committee.

Constitution Sought.

From this point the group urged that a convention be planned to elect a permanent leader and to adopt a constitution and formulate policy of the organization.

The Senate resolution, presented by Senator Howell (Republican), of Nebraska, would authorize the Veterans Bureau to lend any of the men here before July 15 sufficient money for railroad fare home, plus 75 cents daily subsistence. The money would be charged against the bonus certificates which the veterans came here to seek. The measure was sent to the House.

Gen. Glassford called leaders of the army to his office yesterday and severed all police connection with the marchers, turning over to them the last few dollars of the food fund.

On instructions from the District Commissioners, he told them he thought evacuation of the army was in order and that to remain longer and continue the begging of food would "tax the kindness of the people of the District."

Week's Food Prospects.

Bread for the next few days has been promised for the army by local bakers. After that 6,000 pounds of flour, furnished by the Red Cross, and 3,000 pounds of cracked wheat, suitable for breakfast food, will be available. This is expected to last about a week.

Bickering and quarreling continues among the leaders of the army. W. C. Cox, acting chairman of the legislative committee, was removed yesterday by the Portland group, which he represented on the committee. He was given a court-martial and removed by the men, who selected Harry Langdon to succeed him.

Kelly, acting commander in chief after Waters resigned last week, quit yesterday when he was offered a job in Camden. He was five months behind in his rent and hoped to be able to pay it from proceeds of the job.

Then Kleinholtz, former sailor, succeeded him. As his chief assistant he selected William Loughry, of Albuquerque, N. Mex., also a former sailor. Then last night Waters staged his coup and there is still a question—Who is leader of the army?

The men who demanded an election within 48 hours were Frank Bonesky, Francis A. Sheppard, Jay Field, E. P. Wagner, H. M. Jones, J. A. Kennedy and Albert D. Sellers, all of whom are leaders of contingents in the army.

Arthur Milton, head of the executive committee, addressed a request to Father Coughlin, the "Radio Priest" of Detroit, who gave $5,000 to the army, to make a radio appeal for help for the bonus army.

Text of Army's Appeal.

In its appeal headquarters said:

"We are standing on the precipice and are about to be plunged into the bottomless pit of starvation. Our funds are gone; our treasury is exhausted.

"We appeal to the generosity of the great American people, who came to the aid of war-stricken France, starving Belgium and all of the children of vanquished Germany, to send us food.

"We helped you in '17 and '18; help us now in this our hour of need."

Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, an advocate of full bonus payment, introduced a resolution in the Senate for a congressional investigation of conditions in the encampments and to report on a policy to be followed in caring for the veterans. No action was taken.

A complaint was lodged with Gen. Glassford yesterday by Communists against ill treatment of the radicals by the veterans, and against the police for holding one of their agents in a precinct for four days without permitting him to communicate with friends. Gen. Glassford ordered an investigation.

Civil War Veteran Doubts Bonus Army's Patriotism

Gen. E. S. Fagg, 83 years old, Civil War veteran and assistant adjutant general of the United Confederate Veterans, thinks that the bonus forces are showing poor patriotism and ought to go home.

Interviewed at the Raleigh Hotel last night, prior to his return to Richmond, Va., Gen. Fagg pointed out that the World War veterans were well looked after in the Army, had better clothing and food than many older men who stayed at home and help pay for their upkeep, and "they saw the world."

"More than anything, they were expected to fight for their country and not come back and complain about money that isn't due them for thirteen years," the Confederate veteran declared.

Gen. Fagg is well known throughout the country as a hotel man. He has been in the hotel business 40 years, having worked in 133 hotels in 34 States and the District of Columbia. He is now connected with a summer hotel in Crocket Springs, Va.

He is a member of four veterans' organizations and commodore of the Confederate Naval Veterans.

ECONOMY MEASURE PASSED AND IS SENT TO PRESIDENT

amended report, Senator La Follette verbally flayed the chamber for its reversal. He rebuked members for allowing the House to "force them to accept its conditions," then predicted that Congress would pass much valuable time at the next session of Congress righting injustices wrought through the bill.

In reversing its stand, the Senate established a precedent, Senator La Follette charged. He said he had looked through the records and had failed to find a single instance where the Senate had recalled a bill before the House had appointed conferees. There have been cases where four and five conferences have been ordered on one bill, and numerous instances where new conferees have been named, he said.

"Carried to its logical conclusion," he said, "the House has forced the Senate to accept its conditions."

"I believe this precedent will come back in the future to plague the Senate. The House has not taken responsibility for this action. Yet the House is responsible for failing to comply with the Senate request that new conferees be named. The request should have been granted, if there was to be that comity necessary between the two houses.

"I resent the action of the Senate, because I think it establishes a precedent that will further impair the Senate in the conduct of its relations with the House."

He charged the bill was a "hodge podge of legislative inconsistency," and accused the Senate of adopting "a hit and miss program of appropriations."

Senator Copeland was just as vigorous in his denunciation.

"This measure will undermine the morale of all Federal employes—has already done so," he said.

"It is sloppy legislation. While everyone of us is in favor of economy, so far as economy is concerned, this bill is a failure."

Only Senator Ashurst (Democrat), Arizona, joined with Senator Jones in urging approval of the report. Senator Ashurst said inequities in the bill can be corrected by resolutions, but should not be permitted to block the Government's economy program.

"There isn't a senator here who does not know that it is this conference report or nothing," he said.

Taking up a few of the objections to the bill, Senator Jones declared them without "very much foundation."

He said he had assurance from the Comptroller General that the "superannuated employe" clause would not force withdrawal of any worker before he had finished the fifteen years necessary for retirement.

As for the section requiring dismissal of married workers, he declared himself entirely out of sympathy with the provision, but said it should not be used as an argument for defeating the entire bill.

He again urged the necessity of the impounding clause, turning back into the Treasury funds that under the original Hoover furlough measure would have been used to retain workers in their jobs. Only through this section, he said, could the Government save the $100,000,000 in economies claimed for the furlough plan.

A stormy session in the House served as prelude for the final Senate action. Debate reminiscent of the early days of the pay-cut fight was precipitated when the House was asked to comply with the Senate's request for return of the report.

Speaker Garner failed in an effort to get unanimous consent when Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, shouted his objection. A motion was entered immediately by Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns. The motion was ruled nondebatable and was passed viva voce.

Opponents of the bill immediately arose and were loud in their denunciation. Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, declared the report "has been rammed down our throats." Representative Cochran asked that the House be given another chance to vote.

Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard enlisted personnel alone are exempted from operation of the furlough plan. Although it is specifically provided that District school teachers, police and firemen shall not be required to take payless leave, an 8.3 per cent cut in salary is substituted.

A similar provision is made for those workers considered indispensable. Under the scale inserted by Representative John McDuffie, House economy chairman, cuts would range from 8.3 per cent on salaries between $1,000 and $10,000 to 20 per cent over $20,000.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

DR. L. W. AUSTIN, president of the International Scientific Radio Union, who died Monday, was one of the world's greatest authorities on static. Ocean static interested him particularly. His laboratory at the Bureau of Standards in Washington was a maze of antennae and mysterious instruments by means of which Dr. Austin and assistants listened day and night to static conditions in all parts of the world.

Dr. Austin was soft-spoken and modest. A true son of Vermont, he was a man of few words. One time a new radio editor, sensing a big story, dashed out to the Bureau of Standards and asked: "Dr. Austin, what do you know about conquering static that you did not know a year ago?"

A scientist less sure of himself would have been considerably more verbose, but Dr. Austin replied, "Not much!" Although a highly technical man, he took the greatest pains to make himself clear to the lay interviewer, though his subject frequently was so involved that the layman hardly understood what the scientist was talking about. Dr. Austin was always courteous, kindly and infinitely patient.

THE third day of the Democratic national convention will get under way over WRC at 8:15 o'clock this morning, when Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, will be interviewed by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, of Chicago. Beginning at 12 o'clock noon, WRC will broadcast a session of the Democratic national convention. At 5 o'clock there will be a resume of the third day's developments and at 10:15 p. m. a round-up of convention proceedings.

Station WMAL will broadcast a session of the convention, beginning at 12 noon, a talk by a woman party leader at 3 p. m., a talk by H. V. Kaltenborn at 5:45 p. m. and a summary of the day's activities by Frederic William Wile at 10 o'clock tonight.

WHEN crowds are cheering and bands playing as they were in the demonstration following the reference made by Senator Barkley for repeal of the prohibition law, the radio audience doesn't need an announcer to roar into their ears as Lyon (if we caught his name correctly), an N. B. C. convention announcer, did at Chicago, to tell them what is going on.

At such a time an announcer, after explaining the situation, should stand by instead of thundering into the ears of listeners a description of what they are actually hearing.

"Listen to that organ!" Lyon would exclaim excitedly. No need for that when the organ could be heard very plainly. "Now the band is playing 'Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here.'" More superfluous conversation. Anybody within a mile of a radio could hear that without this announcer, who, judging from the way he pronounced Joe Tumulty's name (Toomoolty" he called it), was a novice at political conventions, telling him so.

Ed Wynn, Fire-Chief of the Air, is going to stick to his post throughout the summer. The comedian's original contract expires July 19, but the sponsors of the program announced yesterday that the Fire-Chief broadcasts would continue to be heard after that date.

Station WJZ will offer several of the network's most interesting programs in a row tonight, beginning with the Melody Moments, featuring Merle Alcock, Metropolitan soprano, at 7:30 o'clock, followed by Graham Harris' concert orchestra at 8 o'clock; Jack Benny, George Olsen and his music, with Ethel Shutta, soloist, 8:30 o'clock; the Country Doctor, featuring Phillips Lord, at 9 o'clock, and "Tish," the Mary Roberts Rinehart dramatization, at 9:45 o'clock.

ALL those frowns around the WRC studios these days may be traced to the 10 per cent salary cut which the N. B. C. will put into effect July 1.

PLAYING FOR PENALTIES.

THE puny difference between collecting a penalty of 100 points and 50 points is too insignificant to be worth consideration. When the best that a player can hope for is a set of 1 trick, even though his opponents are vulnerable, he should not double, except possibly in some instances as a precautionary measure to prevent a partner from going beyond his depth. The margin of 2 tricks to justify a Penalty Double has the soundest possible basis. One reason is that, however accurate the bidding may be, all the story of the distribution may not have been unfolded, and cards counted on as sure trick winners may not actually prove to be so when the hand is laid on the table. Another reason is that a close Double helps the Declarer in placing adversely held honor strength, so that a trick that might seem impossible to fulfill, were it not for the illuminating information of the Double, may then be made.

The hand below is an example not only of the unwise Double, but of accurate play on the part of the Declarer in realizing the trick-taking potentialities of his hand:

South—Dealer.

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♠	1NT	Pass
3♡	Pass	3NT	Pass
4♡	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding requires no particular comment. South's three heart bid, after his pass, cannot be construed as showing 3 plus honor-tricks, otherwise he certainly would have made an Opening bid. North, holding 2½ honor-tricks, wisely keeps the bidding open.

Against South's four heart contract, West first cashed two rounds of spades, then shifted to the diamond suit, hoping that his partner held the minor tenace over the major tenace appearing in the Dummy. The Ace was played from Dummy, and the Knave of trumps led, the finesse losing to West's King. West continued the diamonds. A low diamond was played from Dummy, East covered, and South trumped.

The play of the diamond suit apparently placed the King in the East hand, and South, of course, knew that West still retained the spade Ace and probably the club Queen, as otherwise he could not have had the strength to have made a vulnerable Opening bid. Assuming that the key cards were thus located, South proceeded to play the hand in the only manner in which it could be made. He continued to lead trumps, and after the ninth trick the following situation was developed:

South now led the heart 7, and West, discarding before the Dummy, was compelled to part with a club. Dummy's spade was now useless, so that was drawn and East was compelled to guard against the diamond Queen winning the trick, so also was compelled to unguard the club suit. South now led a small club from his hand, won with the Ace in Dummy, returned a club, and thus cashed the last 2 tricks—a correct result from his accurate play of the hand.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Unless your opponents have obviously overbid, a Penalty Double, based on a lesser margin than a defeat of two tricks, is unwise. Not only will the Double quite probably assist the Declarer in locating key cards, but the difference between the doubled and undoubled penalty is too insignificant to be considered when the set is only one trick.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

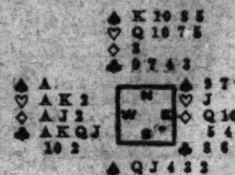
West—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Beach wraps are assuming volume! A fine light-weight, meshed wool makes a very enveloping one, with cords and tassels to hold it in place. (Deh-ray designed.)

NEW YORK, June 28.—"Onward—ever onward"—yes, in circles!

Can you remember the prewar days—and then the war days? And the styles of those days—Irene Castle—Mata Hari in Paris—Poiret, the magnificent, whose fantastic ideas of clothing the feminine form seemed so well to suit the fantastic times—Erte, who interpreted his own and Poiret's ideas, and the general hysteria that vented itself in grotesque poses, glittering colors, sometimes absurd trimmings, certainly inartistic lines.

Yet aren't we getting back there in so short a time? Look at any beach of today! Look at the fantastic wrappings that very, very chic and elegant women put around themselves when they don't want the sun on their skins, and then look at the utter wisps that they wear when they do want the sun! In San Sebastine, Cannes, Nice, Biarritz, Deauville—because the weather has seen fit to become modern in its topsy-turvyness, and no one knows which is a winter resort and which a summer resort these days—one sees, too, the most grotesque and ungainly and ungraceful postures purposely indulged in by women, properly attired for them, to be sure—the postures, I mean. We have only a few weeks to wait for these postures to appear on our own beaches.

Ah, well! Who are we to try to turn the wheels of the world?

So we get in and swim along—oh, and sink ever so often, and bob up again—you know! It's darn hard to drown, at that—and then we design a swathing, wrappy, throw-all-around-me - and - keep - the sun - from - me - but-let-in-air-and-let-out-heat sort of a beach wrap, made of a light, light-weight, open mesh wool like cashmere would be if it were meshed—and then we sketch it for you. The braided ends that hang with a tassel weighing them are far more useful than you think, too—the one that ends the very wrappy skirt, for instance—could wrap clear around miladi's waist, tie into a slipknot of itself, and hold the whole garment closely to her figure when she wanted to walk and perhaps not hold it to her waist with her elbow, as she is doing in the sketch. The one hanging down the back does much the same thing—it wraps her loosely at the throat when she has had enough sun, or keeps the garment from slipping off her shoulders when she wants to drop it for a little sun on the back.

Know what the latest in nightgowns happens to be? Cotton, if you please. And it just happens also that cotton is the very best idea for nightgowns for summer, at that. So, apart from their style value, you have their practical comfort, too. That's why we made an illustrated leaflet telling you how to make some darling nightgowns for summer wear, to be made of cotton, preferably—but you can make 'em of silk if you wish, of course. A stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring you this leaflet. You'll like to make 'em and wear 'em.

Picnic Menus Cooked in the Open.

AS we outlined in our column yesterday, today we shall continue with plans for picnics—these menus to be of the hot variety. And in addition, we must remind you that in our picnic basket we shall want to include numerous implements and accessories which help to make a picnic a real joy.

First of all, we shall need a supply of paper plates, cups and napkins, and if we feel so inclined, it might be well to tuck in a paper tablecloth. Next we'll need covered jars for the sugar and butter, and above all, don't forget a can opener and, if we're planning ginger ale or the like, a bottle opener will certainly come in handy.

We must remember also, if we are planning to cook our food in the open, that matches are indispensable, to say nothing of a neat stack of newspapers to be made into little balls for the making of the fire. And a hatchet should not be forgotten, for this will, indeed, come in handy, and only those who have once forgotten it, know whereof I speak.

Then, too, we must remember the little insignificant salt and pepper shakers, and the thermos bottle filled with milk for the kiddies.

And now with these reminders, I think we may safely proceed with the menus, and we shall plan two, that you may make a choice.

HOT PICNIC MENUS.
No. 1.

Pickles Olives
Broiled Lamb Chops With Bacon
Fried Potatoes
Green Peas
Rolls Butter
Individual Strawberry Shortcake
Milk Coffee

No. 2.

Fried Chicken
Baked Potatoes
Corn on the Cob
Coleslaw
Rolls Butter
Homemade Fruit Ice Cream
Red Devil Cake

Strawberry Shortcake.

Wash, remove the stems and crush a quart of fresh berries. Add two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, and allow to stand in refrigerator for at least two hours. Blend one cupful of flour, two tablespoonfuls baking powder, two tablespoonfuls butter and add enough milk to make a dough that may easily be handled. Pat into little biscuits or cut out with a biscuit cutter. Put one on top of another, so that each individual shortcake has two layers, and bake in a hot oven about twelve minutes, or until nicely browned. Split across, and put the crushed strawberies between and on top. Cover with whipped cream and serve at once. The shortcake may be buttered when it comes from the oven before being put together again with the berries.

Philadelphia Ice Cream.

1 pint thin cream, scalded
¾ cupful sugar
1 pint cream
2 teaspoonfuls vanilla.

Dissolve the sugar in the scalded thin cream, and cool. Add the cream and vanilla. Freeze and pack. For freezing use one portion of salt to four of ice. To pack, pour off the water from the bucket and shake the ice and salt to the bottom. Carefully wipe the lid with a damp cloth. Remove the lid and scrape the mixture from the paddle and sides of the can. Remove the paddle and pack the cream solidly. Cover the top of can with waxed paper. Replace the lid and cork the top. Cover with paper tucked well around the can, and pack with ice and salt. Let stand one to three hours. For packing use one measure of salt to eight of ice.

Fresh Fruit Ice Cream.

3 or 4 cupfuls of fruit.
Sugar to sweeten.

Use recipe for Philadelphia ice cream.

Mash the fruit and add the sugar according to tartness. Let stand one hour. When the cream is frozen to the mushy stage, carefully open the freezer and add the fruit, stirring with a wooden spoon. Finish the freezing and pack.

Red Devil Cake.

2 cupfuls sugar
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites
2½ cupfuls flour
½ teaspoonful salt
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 cupful boiling water
1½ teaspoonfuls soda
1 cupful sour milk or buttermilk
2 squares bitter chocolate
1 teaspoonful vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar until light, add well-beaten egg yolks, then sour milk or buttermilk alternately with flour, salt and baking powder, which have been sifted together. Add boiling water to melted chocolate. Add soda and stir until thick. Let cool slightly and mix well with cake batter. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla. Bake from 45 to 60 minutes in 350-degree oven in loaf-cake pan. Ice with seven-minute frosting.

Seven-Minute Frosting.

2 egg whites
1½ cupfuls sugar
5 tablespoonfuls cold water
½ teaspoonful cream of tartar
1 teaspoonful vanilla

Put sugar and water in upper part of double boiler. Add cream of tartar, then egg whites, beaten stiff. Beat with rotary beater until thoroughly mixed, cook seven minutes, beating constantly, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire, add flavoring and beat until thick enough to spread.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: I am 5 feet 9 inches tall and weigh 168 pounds. Have been very careful lately as to limiting starches, sweets, &c., but have not been drinking milk or eating bread. After reading one of your recent replies to inquiries, thought perhaps my diet may not contain everything needed for good health. Would like to have your folder.

LILAS E. C.

Since you did not give us your age, we are sorry we can not say just what you should or should not weigh. However, we are glad to help you just the same. You are right about the need of restricting starches and sweets in order to reduce and even in cases of great overweight, of omitting them almost entirely, but you must remember, too, that it is not only just a question of what not to eat, but of what to eat, as well. It isn't all self-denial and sacrifice; there must be substitutions and balanced meals, too, for, unless a healthy mental attitude is maintained, best results can not be hoped for. It is especially important, then, that milk be included in a reducing diet, even more so, perhaps, than in the average diet, and for the following reasons: Reducing diet must be naturally restricted, or otherwise one could not hope to lose weight. But, because it is so restricted, it becomes more than ever necessary to see that it lacks none of the essential elements. Milk is one of our most important foods. If is the first we receive when we come into the world, and having passed through the various stages of life, it becomes, very frequently, the mainstay of our harvest years. It combines almost all of the elements needed for proper nutrition and health, but, because we need variety in our diets and because we also need bulk and roughage, we include a greater variety as we grow older. So, by all means, include milk in your diet—skimmed milk, preferably, while you are reducing, and at least one pint daily. Include part of this amount in soups, if you wish, but take the pint in one form or another.

Breads need not be altogether omitted from your diet. However, dark breads are more suitable because of their increased roughage and mineral content, but no more than one slice should ever be taken at a meal. If you eat potatoes, do not eat bread. To take both would cause you to exceed your allowance long before your appetite had been satisfied. It is the green vegetables and bulky fruits which give a feeling of well-being without the pangs of an empty stomach.

Let us hear from you soon. We shall be very glad to send you our folder of suggestions and menus.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Doormat Wives.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Please help me. I am married to a man who pledged to love, cherish and protect me.

After two years of married life with him I find he is not doing either or any of these things he promised me to do. I love him, I fear, more than he does me. I am a home body and love to fix nice things to surprise him. But he never compliments me on anything and seems not to see my side of life at all. If he speaks it is criticism, never a compliment. It seems everybody is better than I. He will sit in a room with me for hours and not open his mouth, and if I speak he cuts me so I feel sorry I said anything. My heart feels so hurt. He is not a bit affectionate, and if I try to be he pushes me off. I am hungry for love and some one to care for me. He is a government employe and has a good salary. He pays the rent, buys such food as he likes, for which I am very grateful. But he will not give me a dollar for myself. All the rest he seems to spend foolishly and throws away in poker games. Can I demand some of his salary as his housekeeper? I have pleaded with him, but he always says he has not got it, even if he has just been paid. So if I get any it will have to come through a lawyer. What would you advise? He goes out every night. When I get home from my work, about 6:30, he has been gone about three hours, and returns any time he feels like it. If I ask him where he's been I get no reply. He never takes me out any place.

LOUISE.

There is one phenomenon of nature that we will never be able to understand, and that is the doormat wife. Why any woman should submit to the indignities described in the hundreds of letters we read every day is beyond the comprehension of any average mind. If marriage brings a woman only insult why continue in the married state? If a man, far from being a provider and protecter, becomes merely a surly inmate in the same house, allowing the woman to pay her way, and cook his meals, how can the woman even hesitate as to her course? Self-respect points the way. To live with such a man as his wife is the lowest level of degradation, and that being so, the woman has no choice but to leave. If every woman so degraded by a so-called husband packed her belongings and left him to his fate there would be fewer of these abyamal brutes. But women meekly accept such humiliation and spend their lives as unpaid servants, afraid to call their souls their own.

Leave this man. Live decently alone all the days of your life if necessary, but salvage your soul at least. Incidentally, you will find him a different person once you have asserted yourself as a human being. Then you may make terms—if you by that time could endure the thought. But once away, you probably would not return on any terms. In any case, cease being what you are today—an unpaid servant and doormat wife!

ELEVEN AGES OF MAN.

"HOW to live," quotes the Emmetsburg, Iowa, Index as dividing the age of man into eleven periods, in accordance with the dietary habits of each. I do not know that either William Shakespeare or the editor of the Emmetsburg paper ever shot craps, but the use of the numbers seven and eleven places one or the other under the need of explaining.

The eleven ages, as designated by the principal foods of each, are:

1. Milk.
2. Milk and bread.
3. Milk, eggs, bread and spinach.
4. Oatmeal, bread and butter, green apples and all-day suckers.
5. Ice cream soda and hot dogs.
6. Minute steak, fried potatoes, coffee and apple pie.
7. Bouillon, roast duck, scalloped potatoes, creamed broccoli, fruit salad, divinity fudge and demi-tasse.
8. Pate de foie gras, wiener schnitzel, potatoes Parisienne, eggplant a l'opera, demi-tasse, Roquefort cheese.
9. Two soft-boiled eggs, toast and milk.
10. Crackers and milk.
11. Milk.

The eleven can be arranged in three groups. The first five, which he terms ascent, are the periods of immaturity. The next three, or plateau periods, include the years of hard, driving work, on the one hand; the results of idleness and artificiality on the other. The last three comprise senescence and senility.

The Emmetsburg editor, in spite of his joking, meant us to infer that children in the first three groups had to eat what they were told to. The foods culminated in spinach, which all children are supposed to eat under compulsion, and to shut their eyes and switch off their taste organs as they comply.

The intent was to portray revolt in ages 4 and 5, by the inclusion of green apples, all-day suckers, ice cream sodas and hot dogs.

In the next group the years of hard work are included in the sixth period. The diet connotes hurried eating, preoccupation and no social interchange, conversation or music during eating. It meant a few minutes snatched from work, rapid eating, insufficient chewing—no relaxation, no ruminating or lazing.

If the wise humorist barbs a shaft at lack of leisure in the diet of six he aims at the opposite urge in seven and eight. The menus for these periods indicate revolt against six. But they also indicate too much leisure and artificiality. That of six would not be bad if the technique of eating were changed somewhat, if more time and more talk were sandwiched in, and if there could be a post-prandial cud chewing. Those of seven and eight are bound to be bad from almost every standpoint. For one thing, they lay the foundations that make necessary the limitations of nine, ten and eleven.

IT IS NOT TRUE.

Mrs. M. writes: Is it true that using cooking utensils made of aluminum causes stomach cancer?

REPLY.

No.

WHIPPING THE FAT.

M. W. writes:

1. Does any bending exercise have a tendency to reduce the hips if practiced daily?
2. Does sitting all day at one's work have a tendency to enlarge the hips?

REPLY.

1. No, but rolling does.
2. Not especially. It tends to produce obesity and the hips are favored locations for fat.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

CLARKIA AND BLUE AGERATUM.

DO you know the old-fashioned garden flower, clarkia, which is again coming into vogue? Every one will want some clarkia, especially some of the newer varieties.

Clarkia resembles stock, having double flowers on long spikes. It is easier to grow, however, than stocks and is a bit more graceful in the border. To grow clarkia successfully the seeds should be sown early, so the plants have a good start before warm weather sets in. You may sow the seed in the open ground and later thin it out, or you may set out young plants which were started in the greenhouse. This, of course, is the wiser course, at this time. The flowers of this plant are well adapted for cutting. Clarkia usually attains a height of sixteen inches. It should thrive in any place where the soil is light and not too rich. The life of the plant will be prolonged if you plant it where it will be partially shaded during the hot days of summer.

While midsummer heat may prove fatal to clarkia, it is so easy to grow that if you only have one month of beautiful blossoms you will be repaid for your efforts. Then you sow more seed during the summer and have another crop of flowers in the early fall.

We all know and admire blue ageratum. We see it wherever we go. There are two outstandingly beautiful varieties, which we should get, whenever they are available. The Blue Ball and the Blue Star are varieties that are well suited for planting in some conspicuous place in our borders or for porch decoration. Both varieties are compact growers, and, therefore, well suited to pot use.

Horticulture is making great strides, old varieties are being improved and new varieties are being introduced each year. So we should try to add a new variety or two to our gardens each year.

The dianthus, or sweet wivelsfield, is not so very new, though last year was the first time we saw much of it in the flower shows. It is like sweet William and grows best in a cool atmosphere.

What Today Means

"CANCER."

IF June 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., from 3:15 to 5:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:50 p. m. The least propitious hours are from noon to 1:50 p. m. and from 6:25 p. m. to 7:40 p. m.

June 29 promises more spiritual happiness than material reward. Business interests will pursue the even tenor of their way and be free from surprises. Personal interests, however, will dominate the situation. Much can be expected from the making of a new friendship or the revival of an old one, or from an undesigned coincidence savoring of romance.

Children born on this June 29 will, although often in hot water, be productive of much happiness. The faults committed by them will be the result of impulsiveness, not that of malice. As their boisterousness is toned down, they will develop into fearless, affectionate and exceedingly human beings, loved by many and liked by all.

If you were born on June 29 your "make-up" is negative, rather than positive, and you are contented with little. You experience no urge to be up and doing, and ambition never stirs you to attempt anything out of the ordinary. You are satisfied to vegetate, and, consequently, will always be "small potatoes." Your existence is a placid one and free from the cares and disappointments of those who achieve. It also is unblessed by the joys of victory over difficulties, by the thrill of "something attempted, something done."

You are not a friend of progress, and prefer to stick to old ways and proven methods. The beaten track is your chosen path. You also are largely a product of environment and are quite satisfied with the situation in life to which you feel you have been called. You do not attempt to create or control conditions, but are willing that they should dominate you.

Your tastes are simple, and your loyalty to kith and kin is very marked. You, too, are sincere, unaffected and unpretentious. As a marriage partner you are a safe bet, insofar as constancy and reliability are concerned, and your habits will be characterized by clockwork regularity. You are not capable of a mad passion. You, however, will possess an enduring affection.

Successful people born on June 29:

Thomas Dunn English, author and editor; wrote song "Ben Holt."
John Q. A. Ward, sculptor.
William James Mayo, surgeon.
Maj. Gen. George W. Goethals, chief engineer Panama Canal.
John Bach McMaster, historian.

GOV. RITCHIE URGED TO CONTINUE FIGHT

Montgomery Commissioners Send Telegram to Him in Chicago.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland was urged to continue his fight for nomination as the Democratic candidate for President in a telegram sent to him in Chicago yesterday by the Montgomery County commissioners. The commissioners met at Rockville and divided their attention between routine business and radio broadcast of the Democratic convention at Chicago. A radio had been installed in the corner of the hearing room of the commissioner's suite at the new courthouse.

The telegram read: "The commissioners of Montgomery County send their greetings, based on a growing hope that your reputation for discernment, courage, stability and fidelity may lead to your early nomination.

"Vacillating conduct now menaces the party and the country. We beg you to persist. In so doing you will render humanity a service.

"C. Y. LATIMER, Clerk."

The commissioners awarded a contract for grading and constructing drainage structures in Dale drive between Sligo Crest drive and Georgia avenue to Bright & Shepherd Co., Inc., of Washington, whose offer of $12,663.08 was low.

A meeting of the rural group which has been active in petitioning the commissioners for lower taxes has been called for Saturday night by Carson W. Pope, leader of the movement. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock at Mr. Pope's home.

Mr. Pope was granted a private hearing Monday by the county commissioners, at which they went over the entire budget and showed him why each item was necessary. He was given a copy of the budget for use at the meeting Saturday when further plans will be made by the group. He objected principally to the allotment of funds for the county farm bureau, home demonstration agent and the county auditor.

The Somerset Town Council yesterday announced a reduction of 25 per cent in the assessed valuation of property in the town limits, reduction of the town budget to $5,420 and reduction of the tax rate from 45 cents per $100 of assessed value to 40 cents.

The budget includes the following items: Construction and maintenance of streets and sidewalks, $1,200; street lighting, $1,100; stationery, advertising and incidentals, $100; salaries, fees and bonds, $700; garbage and trash collections, $900; interest on certificates of indebtedness, $420, and contingent fund, $1,000.

The Montgomery County commissioners will not hold their usual meeting tomorrow, but will meet Tuesday.

Hoover Is Greatest, Says Postal Leader

Toledo, Ohio, June 28 (A.P.).—William G. Morgan, postmaster at Stanford, Ky., today told postmasters of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky they are a part of the national administration and owe it their loyalty and support.

Morgan, who is president of the tri-State Postmasters Association in session here, asserted Mr. Hoover is "the greatest President his country ever had." A like argument was presented by Postmaster Harry E. Hawley, of Mansfield, Ohio. Postmaster General Walter F. Brown came to his home town for the convention.

Tennessee Postmasters Named, Despite Fight

(Associated Press.)

Four eastern Tennessee postmasters whose nomination was opposed vigorously by Representative Lovett (Republican), Tennessee, were confirmed yesterday by the Senate.

They were: Henry, I. Smythe, of Bristol; Lulu M. Divine, of Johnson City; Robert T. Johnson, jr., of Elizabethton, and Jasper A. Berry, of Bulls Gap. Lovette, who defeated Carroll B. Reece for reelection, contended that as the sitting member of the House he should recommend eligibles for the places.

Reprimand Given Gangster's Friend

The State commissioner of correction leveled his criticism at Wilson, director of the budget in the administration of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, after a lengthy conference with Gov. Roosevelt.

Dr. Thayer's reprimand followed his investigation of a visit Higgins, self-styled lobster fisherman but police-styled gangster, made to Warden Wilson a few nights before he was executed on June 19 by rival gangsters.

A mutual interest in fast motor boats and Wilson's proposal to buy an airplane, together with the fact the warden had known Higgins "a good many years," accounted for the gangster's visit to the prison on June 17, Wilson explained to Dr. Thayer. Higgins paid the warden a visit by airplane, landing on prison property.

World Kiwanis Concedes Right to Work for Repeal

JULIUS COCHARD, French strongman, won one of the toughest races in history when he carried a sack weighing 220 pounds from Paris to Rheims, a distance of 112 miles, in 6 days and 22 hours. Cochard's great strength and endurance enabled him to out-distance his equally heavy-laden competitors.

Cochard was capable of many feats of strength, including a two-hand dead lift of 660 pounds. He could lift a 154-pound weight overhead with one finger!

Fan, as a term applied to devotees of sport, originated in the 80's, according to writers, when newspapers contracted "fanatic" to "fan." The first known reference was when Chris Von der Ahe, of the St. Louis Browns, called Charles Haas the "greatest baseball fanatic." Shortened to "fan," the term soon spread to other sports.

Before engineering skill carried modern highways into and over the deserts of Western America, it was thought that only a flexible roadway of planks bound together could be adapted to travel over the shifting sand. The desert districts of Yuma near the Arizona-California State line were spanned by roads of this kind, now fallen into disuse because of the modern high-speed highways that parallel them.

In Southern California's desert district the "old plank" road was constructed by the State in 1916. It was raised and lowered to conform to the movement of the sand.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

TALL, very blonde, very attractive, a young lady—who, I am told, is oh, much younger than she looks—in a white and blue evening gown was something of a center of attraction last Saturday night at the convention dance of Theta Sigma, a national high school sorority. Her name, June Miller, does not instantly explain all of that charm, but her mother's does a great deal of it.

Miss Miller is the daughter of Mrs. Izetta Jewell Brown Miller, who, as Izetta Jewell, was one of the most popular repertoire leading women that ever trod the Washington boards in stock. Back in the days of the old Columbia Players, and later the Poli Players, that was when A. H. Van Buren was the favorite leading man and Dorothy Bernard, George Barbier, Jessie Glendenning and others of fragrant memory were annual visitors, just as Mrs. Adelaide Hibbard returns every year now to grace the roster of the more recent National Theater Players.

Lieut. Herbert Duckworth, U. S. Naval Air Corps, is driving here from San Diego, so Dot Lewis, of The Post's reviewing staff, whispers to me, for a brief visit with relatives before proceeding to his new post at Pensacola, Fla., where he will teach other Navy men to spread their wings.

According to all report, Lieut. Duckworth has gone up considerably in the estimation of his two children these past few months. Why?

Well, Lieut. Duckworth is not just another naval aviator, bearing no mark of distinction from hundreds of others. Not he. He is the flier who doubled for Conrad Nagel in "Hell Divers," that M-G-M thriller, and set his rickety old crate down on that rock-strewn beach where Clark Gable got his leg all jimmed up and Wallace Beery did a little first-aid surgery. Since he carted Wally Beery all over the skies, his kids think pretty well of him!

There were, however, two other Navy airmen who helped out with the real maneuvering of the ships in "Hell Divers"—something we have suspected right along, sort of!

Brian Aherne, the young English actor who came to America to act Robert Browning to the Elizabeth Barrett of Katherine Cornell in Rudolf Besier's "The Barrretts of Wimpole Street," has declined all the offers to enter the films he received in Hollywood during the play's engagement in Los Angeles.

Speaking of afterthoughts, here are a few of this column's on the week's bills, insofar as it has encompassed them: Benny Davis, the song writer-actor-producer-night club proprietor, has the best act of his career in his present aggregation of "Future Stars," at Loew's Fox. . . . He admits it. . . . Last week in Baltimore, Benny participated in the sendoff accorded Gov. Ritchie of Maryland when he left for the Chicago convention, singing his bring-back-beer roundelay to a station crowd of 10,000,000 people, or something like that. . . . Mrs. Davis is with Benny, as usual, but for the first time in several seasons is not taking part in his revue. . . . "The Dark Horse," at the Earle, can't quite make up its minds. . . . It starts out as a political burlesque of rich promise and then about midway, or a little later, goes matrimonial farce with the private concerns of Warren William, Vivienne Osborne and Bette Davis entirely overshadowing the "dark horse." . . . Maybe that's what made him dark. . . . Bette Davis, by the way, struck me as altogether too broad A and generally affected for the role of the secretary. . . . She should have been over a tableful of teacups, polling the comparative popularity of lemon and sugar. . . . "Mickey's Revue," at RKO-Keith's, is one of the funniest Mickey Mouse cartoon comedies Walt Disney has ever turned out, especially after all those kittens get going. . . . Una Merkel's role of Sally, the beauty shop operator, with Jean Harlow in "Red Headed Woman," at the Palace, is the blood sister of Aggie Lynch, Mary Turner's little pal in "Within the Law." . . . The droll Miss Merkel plays it with disarming naturalness, naivete, or something.

Rezoning Assailed In Prince Georges

Bradbury Heights Change Protested; Beltsville Revision Refused.

A protest against rezoning a lot in Bradbury Heights was received yesterday by the Prince Georges County commissioners, who refused to change the zoning of a lot in Beltsville after petitions against the proposal were received.

The Bradbury Heights lot was rezoned last week to allow George J. Bradbury to erect a gas station, and the commissioners said they would not rescind their action. The request of A. G. McClay that a lot in Beltsville belonging to Jane W. Beall be rezoned from residential to commercial was the disapproved application.

A protest against closing the Mellwood School was received and referred to the school board. Six persons, including two trustees, signed the petition. On request of the Lanham-Severn Road Association, the State Roads Commission will be asked why work on this project has not been started. Jaddy Allen was appointed dog tax collector for Queen Anne district.

BYRD ACT REJECTION URGED AT BALLSTON

Lyman M. Kelly, member of the Arlington county board, emphatically advocated that the county withdraw from the Byrd road act at last night's meeting of the Ballston Citizens Association.

With 265 men now employed in a county road building program, he said he believed this should be continued. If the State, by the Byrd plan, takes over all of the county roads, he said, it should also do the policing and street lighting.

Although a county-wide sewerage system is not an issue at this time, such a system would be possible without extra taxation by the county taking over bankrupt sewer companies, with the idea of a $2,000,000 bond issue as favored by Fred A. Gosnell, county board member, who favors the Byrd act, unnecessary, he asserted.

With hundreds of colored electric lights strung about the grounds of the Cherrydale School, the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department opened its annual carnival in the form of a Bicentennial celebration last night. Several hundred citizens attended.

Former Chief John A. Spates is general chairman in charge of the event, which will continue through Saturday night. Proceeds will be applied to the department's maintenance fund.

Two Held on Liquor Charges.

Accused of transporting and possessing a five-gallon can of alleged alcohol Lester F. Duvall, of 225 R street northeast, and L. S. Rohrer, are being held on liquor charges in Marlboro Jail. They were arrested on the southern Maryland pike near the Waldorf police station by Federal agents. Rohrer was formerly proprietor of a roadhouse near Meadows, which was raided several times by Federal and county officers.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY CREWS FIGHT ORDER

Approximately 20 engineers and firemen on the Southern Railway, living in the city, would be affected in the proposed movement of the road, recently announced, to eliminate the "cut-off" engineers and firemen and have the engineers and firemen from Alexandria take their trains from Ivy City, in Washington. This proposed change has brought forth a protest from the local crews.

This new rule was to have become operative July 1, but definite action has been deferred pending a conference of the men with the management, it is stated. Should this rule go into effect the men affected would be compelled to move to Washington.

Miss Grace Davis, of the Tribune Fresh Air Association, will confer tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Baptist Church with the ministers of all denominations in the city and outline plans for the children of New York City who will be cared for in this vicinity for a period of two weeks. It is understood that the minister will sponsor the outing this year and will appoint committees from the various churches. All of the members of former committees are asked to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Ella O'Sullivan Downey, aged 67 years, widow of John T. Downey, died yesterday at her home, 721 Gibbon street. She was a member of the Sodality of St. Mary's Catholic Church. The deceased was a daughter of the late Daniel and Mary O'Sullivan and is survived by the following children: Mrs. Joseph L. Mooney, New York City; John T. Downey, Arthur J. Downey and Miss Marguerite Downey; and also a brother, M. R. O'Sullivan.

Members of the Alexandria City Council, the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, headed by J. William May, president; James T. Preston, secretary, and Dan S. Hollenga, business manager; the Alexandria Rotary Club, headed by Frank T. Fannon, president, and Alexandria Kiwanis Club, headed by Vice President Irvin Diener, will be the guests of the Alexandria Coca Cola Bottling Works at the formal opening at 12:30 o'clock today at King and Peyton streets.

Proposed World Flight Is Delayed.

New York, June 28 (A.P.).—The necessity of making minor plane adjustments will delay for another day or two the start of a projected round the world flight by James Mattern, of Fort Worth, Tex., and Bennett Griffen, of Oklahoma City.

YANKS, HELD TO 4 HITS BY THOMAS, BEAT NATS, 5-2

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE Nats hold the Yankees to four hits and lose, proving that the home run behind a base on balls is mightier than a triple, double and four singles with a guy like Allen scattering the hits.

◆

The Yankees have won four games this season in which the opposition has held them to four hits. The American League magnates could balance the pennant race by withholding credit for Yankee victories unless they were won by a two-thirds majority, a la the national conventions.

◆

Alphonse Thomas said he was glad to get away from the Chicago White Sox because the weak-hitting Sox couldn't help him win the close ones, but yesterday afternoon he was entitled to think he had leaped from the frying pan to the Hitless Wonders.

◆

Operative Z-23 of this department informs me that Washington's bid for Danny MacFayden was $50,000, and that the Yankees gave the Boston Team a sizable sum more than that amount in addition to Pitchers Paul Andrews and Henry Johnson.

◆

◆

Twelve Eastern colleges, including Harvard, ban radio broadcasting of football games, and Ted Husing probably has a word that would describe their decision.

◆

Rudy Dusek recently caught the only salmon ever to come out of Chesapeake Bay. In fact, he caught a whole can of grade A salmon that was hooked to his line by Joe Turner and George King when Rudy wasn't looking. Until he landed his catch, Dusek was yelling that he had the whale with Jonah, intact.

◆

The barometer is falling rapidly at Bolling Field, where it was announced last night that Goldie Ahearn would resume the promotion of wrestling matches. Ten of Ahearn's twelve shows during the spring were rained out, and, in the interest of good flying weather, the aviation authorities were glad to see them discontinued. But now they're tempting the elements again.

◆

The victory of the Marines in their debut in the current Argentine Cup polo tournament here was not surprising to one Leatherneck fan, who informs this department that Capt. Campbell Brown, No. 1 player on the Marine four, recently won the Army Equitation trophy for horsemanship.

◆

Lefty Grove's wrenched ankle, which was coming along nicely, was aggravated last Friday when he stepped into a hole in the pitcher's box at Buffalo, and he may not be able to face the Nats in any of the four games with Philadelphia this week. Now isn't that too bad.

◆

Dave Harris either does or does not when he pinch hits for the Nats. In his last eight appearances in pinch-hitting roles, Harris has made four hits and struck out four times.

◆

The once Futile Phillies are creating something of a stir in the National League with their pitching. On June 5, they were in the cellar, and this morning they are only two and one-half games behind the lead, with their hurlers having turned in twelve complete games in their last 23 starts.

O. K.'s GRID BROADCASTING.

South Bend, Ind., June 28 (A.P.).—The Rev. Michael Mulcaire, C. S., vice president of Notre Dame University, today said he was not in favor of barring radio broadcasts a Notre Dame's home football games next fall, but that final decision on the question rested with the faculty athletic board.

Vines Is Lone U.S. Hope in England

Austin Beats Shields, Wood Eliminated by Japanese.

Vines, in Semifinals, Faces Crawford, of Australia.

By FRANK H. KING.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 28 (A.P.).—America's hopes for victory in the men's singles of the classic Wimbledon tennis tourney tonight rested solely on the slim shoulders of her national champion, Ellsworth Vines, jr.

The Californian marched into the semifinal rounds today as an avalanche of international tennis power swept two of his fellow countrymen out of the singles play and decimated the American ranks in the mixed doubles.

One disaster after another bowled the Americans over after Vines, in the simplest fashion, opened the day auspiciously with a straight set victory over Enrique Maier, Spanish champion, 6—2, 6—3, 6—2.

Wood Bows in 4 Sets To Japanese.

First to go under was Sidney B. Wood, of New York, the defending champion, who bowed to the canny little Japanese Jiro Sator, in four sets, 7—5, 7—5, 2—6, 6—4. Frank Shields, who defaulted in the final to Wood last year, then was overpowered by England's ranking young star, H. W. (Bunny) Austin, 6—1, 9—7, 5—7, 6—1.

To add to the American discomfiture, three mixed doubles combinations were eliminated. Mrs. Anna Harper, of San Francisco, teaming with the Englishman, Ian Collins, got past her morning match with Miss V. T. Montgomery and G. R. Sherwell, of England, 7—5, 6—3, only to lose to Jacques Brugnon and Mme. Rene Mathieu, the French pair, in the fourth round, 6—3, 6—2.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crawford, of Australia, defeated Wilmer Allison and Helen Jacobs, 6—0, 6—4, and another youthful American pair, Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., and Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, lost to E. D. Andrews, of New Zealand, and Kathleen Stammers, of England, 6—4, 6—4.

Vines-Moody Score In Mixed Doubles.

There were only two other American victories to add to Vines' opening conquest and it took the most powerful of the invading forces to bring them about. Vines teamed with Helen Wills Moody to conquer J. H. Knottenbelt and Miss R. Conquerque, of Holland, 6—2, 6—4, while Miss Jacobs, ranked second only to Mrs. Moody in American women's tennis, joined with Elizabeth Ryan in the women's doubles to beat Miss N. Trentham and Mrs. R. M. Turnbull, 6—1, 4—6, 6—1.

Vines' victory qualified him to meet Jack Crawford, young Australian, who played inspired tennis today in defeating Fred Perry, Britain's No. 2 star, 7—5, 8—6, 2—6, 8—6. Austin will meet Satoh in the lower half of the draw, with both matches scheduled for tomorrow.

Mrs. Moody Allowed To Delay Match.

Mrs. Moody, who was to have met Mary Heeley, of England, tomorrow in the semifinals of women's doubles, received permission to postpone the match until Thursday. Friends of the American star commented she looked paler than usual in her mixed doubles match today.

The other semifinal between Helen Jacobs of the United States and Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France, was to be played as scheduled.

Kowal Medalist In College Golf

Yale's victorious team shot 620 for two rounds. The players were Sidney Noyes, 150; J. E. Parker, 150; Daniel Gamble, 158, and M. P. Warner, 162. Michigan was second with 631 and Ohio State third with 636. Princeton had 641, Williams 672 and Chicago 675.

Other pairings:

Donald Moe (Oregon) vs. Milan Hesin (Harvard), Dennis St. Clair (Williams) vs. C. T. Birch (Dartmouth), Howell vs. Fred Damaske (Northwestern), James Reston (Illinois) vs. Jack Lenfesty (Michigan), David Gamble (Yale) vs. Edward Hammet (Dayton University), Gail Stockton (Southern California) vs. Ferry Garber (Ohio State), John Parker (Yale) vs. John Howard (Michigan), John Fischer (Michigan) vs. R. Day Nursery Plans To Resume Boxing

Outdoor Arena, Seating 3,000, to Be Ready for July 11 Bouts.

The Alexandria Day Nursery Athletic Association will resume sponsorship of boxing shows in Alexandria in a new outdoor arena on the night of July 11, it was announced last night by Jack Tulloch, chairman of the committee in charge. Work on the arena, to be built adjacent to the inclosed Postner Arena with a seating capacity of 3,000, will be begun today.

Joe Banovic, of Binghamton, N. Y., and Sammy Weiss, of Allentown, Pa., both light-heavyweights, have been signed for the wind-up bout of the first show in the new plant. Matchmaker Frankie Mann also is endeavoring to line up other well-known boxers for later programs.

Decision to resume was made by the Day Nursery committee following collapse of plans for outdoor boxing at Fort Washington. It is understood that a gentlemen's agreement existed between Day Nursery and Fort Washington officials whereby the Alexandria organization was to suspend operations during the season at the Army post.

A new scale of prices—$1, $1.50 and $2—was announced.

Nee Ties for Medal, But Loses Playoff

Mayo, Defending Champ, Wins School Honor; G. U. Prep Third.

Greenwich Country Club, Conn., June 28.—Maurice Nee, scholastic golf champion of Washington and a representative of Georgetown Prep in the Eastern interscholastics being contested here, tied with Charles Mayo, jr., Lido Club, Long Island, for the medal with a card of 150 today. But in a special 18-hole playoff Mayo came through to win with 38—37—75 to Nee's 42—39—81.

Georgetown Prep took third place in the team championship, its team of Finn, Nee, Allan and Zubrod amassing 691 strokes. Lawrenceville won with 673, followed by Kiski Prep, of Pittsburgh, 689.

Nee shot a 34 on the back nine, one under par, to tie Mayo this morning. Mayo is the defending champion. In match play, starting tomorrow morning, Nee meets Rogers, of Andover. In the second flight Zubrod meets Brown, of Andover; Finn engages Hemingway, of Lawrenceville, and Allan plays Sinnott, of Roxbury.

Bolling to Resume Mat Bouts on July 5

Bolling Field and Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn will combine to present wrestling shows again starting next Tuesday, July 5, it was announced last night by Ahearn. The shows will be held in an outdoor arena, on the airport field, with a seating capacity of about 2,500. In the event of rain, the shows will be held in the gymnasium.

Ahearn pronounced himself an independent promoter, at the start of his second local mat venture. He stated that he would bring to Bolling Field both Curley and Bowser grapplers, but did not believe that he would be able to do business with Jim Londos.

Ahearn plans to sponsor "mixed" matches, and hopes to bring together Gus Sonnenberg and Sammy Stein, well known in the two distinct mat camps.

Laurel Arena Offers 34 Rounds

Weiner, Barry Renew Old Feud Tonight in Twin City Show.

By JACK ESPEY.

BOXING fans who like their action heated should get their fill tonight in Twin City Arena, near Laurel, where Promoter Charles E. Cornell presents a 34-round card, featured by three bouts of 8 rounds each. The first preliminary is scheduled at 8:30 o'clock.

Jack Portney, Baltimore's left-handed junior welter, and Jimmy Reed, pugnacious Jacksonville (Fla.) puncher, will clash in the bout looked upon as the probable headliner. Portney ranks among the world's ten best 140-pounders, but because he is a southpaw other stars avoid him with the result that his engagements are comparatively few.

Reed Successful In South.

Reed recently invaded this section after a campaign in the South, where he enjoyed better than average success. He defeated, among others, Tommy Bashara, the Norfolk lightweight, who appeared twice last winter in Alexandria. In 1929 he defeated Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, who scored a knockout over Portney last year.

Herman Weiner, slugging heavyweight from Baltimore, and Reds Barry, king of local heavies, are rematched in another of the features. This pair may steal the show, offering as they do the prospect of swinging from their heels for a quick finish. Weiner is out to prove he should have been given the decision last December, when he floored Barry for a nine count, but received only a draw after eight rounds.

The third eight involves Ray Bowen, Washington's skillful boxing junior welter, and Henry Janco, stocky Lawrence (Mass.) 140-pounder, who has met several of the best in the game at his weight. Bowen seeks to maintain winning ways that began a month ago with a technical kayo victory over Pete De Angeles, of Baltimore.

Young Van Seeking Ninth Win.

Bus service will be operated from the Annapolis Hotel on a five-minute schedule, starting at 7 o'clock.

Boxing Bits' Selections—Portney to beat Reed, Barry to beat Weiner, Bowen to beat Janco, Van to beat Adams and Simpson to beat Horn. (Batting, .729).

Richards, Lund Win Maryland Jr. Titles

Baltimore, Md., June 28.—First-rate golf, coupled with such determined battling for top honors, developed in the annual Maryland State Golf Association's eighteen-hole junior championships, at the Maryland Country Club's layout today that four 76's were turned in and a play-off necessary, in two age classes.

George Richards, Chevy Chase, won the title in the oldest bracket by a toss of a coin after he and Alvin Ruppel, Forest Park, both with 76, had each traversed the extra nine-hole play-off in 40. Rain broke up the battle at that point, and the coin was brought out.

Dusek and Garibaldi Top Wrestling Card

One of the choicest plums obtainable in the wrestling market, a meeting between rough-and-tumble Rudy Dusek and the bull-strong and scientific Gino Garibaldi has been plucked by Promoter Joe Turner and will be presented at the ball park tomorrow night.

Turner has arranged one of his most ambitious cards around this feature. In a finish match Joe Stecher, former mat champion, will endeavor to continue his comeback at the expense of Chief White Feather. In other matches Jim McMillen meets Jack Zarnos, Marshall Blackstock engages Frank Brunowicz and Berto Assariti tangles with Jim Monoghan.

Women, accompanied by paying customers, will be admitted free. Tickets have been measurably reduced, starting with this show. Matches start at 8:30, with the feature going on two hours later.

Quarterfinals Reached by Robinson

Defending Champion Downs Ladd in Army Tennis.

Hedekin, Dorst, Van Vliet Also Score; Doubles Today.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE massive Sheridan Cup, the most prepossessing tennis trophy in existence—excepting the Davis Cup—advanced one step closer to being reclaimed for the 1932 season yesterday on the quick-drying green courts of the Army and Navy Country Club as eight Army officers reached the quarter-final round of their annual service championship.

Leading the pack was Lieut. Stan Robinson, who won the tournament last year in impressive fashion. Yesterday he beat Lieut. John Ladd, Reserve Corps, who is vice president of the local tennis association and a well-known figure on the courts hereabout. The score was 6—1, 7—5, the second set bringing out some tolerably fine tennis. Ladd's aggressive chopping often undermined the classic strokes of the defending titleholder, but he fought a losing cause from the start.

Sherburne Eliminates Helms.

Lieut. Sherburne, who played No. 1 at West Point a couple of years back, put Lieut. Jack Helms, sixth seeded player, out of the running by 7—5, 6—4, capitalizing on the tendency of Helms to overhit the lines.

Maj. Robert Van Vliet, who won the District tournament away back in 1916, and then again in 1928, played sprightly tennis yesterday to trim Lieut. Jimmy Heiskell 6—3, 6—1. Van Vliet stormed the net behind clinging chop strokes, and Heiskell could do nothing about it. Maj. Dorst, the fourth seeded player, tried out all of his strokes on Maj. Cole and won pretty much as he pleased, 6—2, 6—4.

Doubles Play Starts Today.

Doubles start today, with the tournament virtually won by the No. 1 seeded team of Maj. Van Vliet and Lieut. Robinson.

Dolf Muehleisen, the Army's proudest tennis boast and a flying cadet out in California, made his first appearance yesterday, beating Tom Mangan in a fine exhibition singles match.

SECOND ROUND.

Drake defeated Newcarden, 6—1, 6—3; Sherburne defeated Helms, 7—5, 6—4; Robinson defeated Ladd, 6—1, 7—5; Hedekin defeated Miller, 6—1, 6—3; Brownfield defeated Morrill, 6—3, 8—6; Van Vliet defeated Heiskell, 6—3, 6—1; Dorst defeated Cole, 6—2, 6—4.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.
SINGLES.
(9 and 10 o'Clock.)

Quarter-final round—Van Vliet vs. Drake; Sherburne vs. Hedekin; Dorst vs. Thatcher; Robinson vs. Brownfield.

DOUBLES.
(11 o'Clock.)

First round—Robinson and Van Vliet vs. Newgarden and Groves; Stewart and Ladd vs. Jackson and Welchel; Grier and Gordon vs. Thatcher and Lynch; Drake and Sherburne, bye; Dorst and Helms vs. Crane and Watson; Brownfield and Poore vs. Morrill and Lewis; Cole and Balsom vs. Bassett and Hedekin.

Marriner Is Stopped By Retzlaff in First

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—Charley Retzlaff, the Duluth Dynamiter, stopped Les Marriner, former University of Illinois football star, in the first round of the scheduled 10-round battle before 3,000 spectators in the White City outdoor arena tonight.

Retzlaff won on a technical knockout, when a towel came sailing into the ring after Marriner hit the floor three times.

Two Polo Matches Listed Here Today

Third Cavalry Yellows-War Blues and War Whites-Marines Play.

Yesterday's scheduled polo match in the Argentine Cup tournament between the Third Cavalry Yellows and the War Blues was postponed, due to wet grounds. The game will be played today as a part of a double header. At 3 o'clock the Marines will meet the War Whites, and the first-mentioned tilt will follow at 4 o'clock.

So far the Marines have proven the surprise of the tourney. Last year the Quantico mallet wielders were easy marks for the poorest squad in this section, but not so this season. In their surprise victory over Third Cavalry on Monday the Marine Team was well balanced and played one of the best defensive games witnessed here in a long time.

Today's match will mark the first appearance in the tourney of the War Whites. This four has dominated polo here for some years, but will have to concede a four-goal handicap to the Marines this afternoon, and spectators may see the toppling of a champion.

Denial of Walker Berth Disappointing to Goodman

OMAHA, Nebr., June 28 (A.P.).—Johnny Goodman, only amateur golfer who qualified for the final day of the national open tournament last week, expressed keen disappointment today when notified he had not been selected for a place on the American Walker Cup Team. "Everybody at the open told me my performance practically cinched a place on the Walker Cup Team," said Goodman. "Officials, players and sports writers all thought my place on the team assured because I finished low amateur."

New York, June 28 (A.P.).—Capt. Francis Ouimet, national amateur golf champion, will have a combination of youth and experience from which to select his team for the defense of the Walker Cup against the British challengers September 1-2 at the country club, Brookline, Mass.

His squad, announced today by H. H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association, consists of the following players:

George T. Dunlap, jr., New York; Billy Howell, Richmond, Va.; Harrison R. Johnston, of St. Paul; Donald K. Moe, Portland, Oreg.; Maurice McCarthy, jr., New York; Charles Seaver, Los Angele and Stanford; Jess W. Sweetser, New York; George J. Voigt, New York; Jack Westland, Chicago.

BOSTON, June 28 (A.P.).—Young Bobby Brown pitched the Braves into a virtual second-place tie with Chicago today when he turned back the hard-hitting Phillies, 5-2. It was the Hull youngster's seventh win in ten starts, and he gave the enemy but four hits, striking out six and walking five.

Special to The Washington Post.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 28.—Alphonse Thomas bowed to the Yankees here this afternoon, and invited them to take this, the opening game of the two-game series. They did. They snatched it away from him before he had a chance to laugh and say he was only fooling. They made five runs with three hits, won the ball game, 5 to 2, and are now even with Washington at seven games all.

LIQUEUR, PAYING $15.30, WINS ARLINGTON PARK FEATURE

Old Hillside Second in Sprint

Oswego Princess Is Winner in Latonia Feature.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., June 28 (A.P.).—Liqueur, 2-year-old son of Supremus and ridden by long-shot Jockey T. P. Martin, won the top race here today by a half length over Old Hillside. Llandaff finished third in the 5½-furlong sprint.

Liqueur, which led the field from start to finish, paid $15.30. There were several crack Eastern riders in the race, including Laverne Fator, principal pilot for Col. Edward R. Bradley, but the apprentice lad proved that he could ride 2-year-olds to victory as well as aged horses.

Oswego Princess Wins At Latonia.

Latonia, Ky., June 28 (A.P.).—The racing strip was deep and holding here this afternoon, and only the stoutest of thoroughbreds could negotiate the footing with any degree of success. Very little in the way of class was entered in the seven events, but several spirited contests resulted.

The Ludlow Purse, fourth on the card, served as the feature offering and brought together a limit band of 2-year-olds at 5½ furlongs. The winner turned up in A. B. Gallagher's Oswego Princess, a daughter of Cherokee and Pongee. Second money went to Charles Nuckols' High Diver, and the Greentree Stable's Absolution, coupled in the betting with Double Shuffle, saved the show.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUNMELUS, $5.06, $2.86, $2.24; WATCH HIM, $2.86, $2.44; BIG BRAND, $2.60.

SUNMELUS, racing as if much the best, was restrained in the early stages and, taking a good lead when called upon, won as he pleased. WATCH HIM was outrun to the stretch, then came fast to best the others. BIG BRAND was slow to get going, but finished gamely. MOCKER could not keep up. SOUTH TOUR showed a flash of early speed. DORNOCH stopped badly in the stretch.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $2,500 added; claiming steeplechase. The Gold Coast. For 2-year-olds, colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:07½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LIQUEUR, $15.38, $7.74, $5.44; OLD HILLSIDE, $7.06, $5.32; LLANDAFF, $3.64.

LIQUEUR, showing fine early speed, sprinted to the front at once and, saving ground in the stretch, held on with more courage than usual. OLD HILLSIDE raced close up from the start and was going gamely at the end. LLANDAFF raced a trifle wide throughout, but held LERACK. Latter went fairly well. LE BRUYERE tired. METAURUS raced poorly and was never dangerous. OPINION was shut off after leaving the back stretch. BOBBING was outrun all the way.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out of chute.) Purse, $1,500; allowances. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:37. Off at 4:38. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LATE DATE, $6.06, $3.34, $2.30; SUNTICA, $3.50, $2.40; CANRON, $2.42.

LATE DATE, well rated in the early running, responded gamely to urging in the stretch and, wearing down SUNTICA, got to the front in the closing strides. SUNTICA, always close up, took a good lead after going half the distance and, holding on gamely under punishment, barely missed. CANRON improved her position steadily on outside and was in contending position at stretch turn, but hung in final drive. FLAG TRICK was going gamely at the finish. KAKAPO and BOILING WATER tired.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:06. Off at 5:10½. Winner, L. T. Whitehill's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—INHERITOR, $8.04, $4.56, $3.30; SANTON, $3.70, $3.28; WHO WIN, $4.26.

INHERITOR went to front soon after the start and, although racing wide at stretch turn, held command to withstand the closing challenge of SANTON and win easily. SANTON lost much ground when he was carried wide on the final turn and dired in last furlong. WHO WIN, carried wide by INHERITOR, was caught between the latter and SANTON rounding the bend and lost his chance. BLUE LAW, off slowly, closed a big gap. SEARINGTON was crowded soon after the start. WAR TIME bore out badly in the early stages. BIRD OF PREY quit.

PREFER remained close to the pace set by LUCKY CARTER to the stretch, then caught the latter tiring and, taking a good lead, held sway to the finish. CALONE raced close up and made a game bid in the stretch. TYPHOON was going well at end. LUCKY CARTER tired in the stretch. CRYOUT had early speed. PUNISHMENT and HARUM SCARUM were outrun throughout. LADRONE made up some ground in the last quarter.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE AT FORMER LEVELS

Exception Is New Low Drop In Rails as Earnings Add Disappointment.

New York, June 28 (A.P.).—Stocks swung about erratically today, changing their trend with the dividend news as it came from several important directors' meetings.

The result appeared to be a standoff, for the 90-share composite closed unchanged, although rail averages dipped into new low ground.

Aside from dividend announcements, little occurred to govern the market's course. There was another selection of poor railroad earnings statements covering may operations which was not entirely offset by the better movement of revenue freight in the week ended June 18.

Santa Fe Omission.

Omission of Santa Fe's quarterly disbursement on its common shares, taking them off a paying basis for the first time since 1900, was nonetheless pleasant because it had been expected. What the market had gained from allied chemical's "regular" was more than lost when the news from this important carrier came out; but prices rallied again when American Can surprised Wall street by voting the usual payment quarterly of $1. Norfolk & Western reduced to an $8 basis from $10.

Santa Fe's common shares sold at 17¾, the lowest in this century, closing a point off the bottom for a net loss of 1¾. Allied Chemical and American Can each rallied 3, but had to give up part of their gains. U. S. Steel and American Telephone both touched new lows before steadying, and were negligibly changed at the close. Union Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio sagged nearly a point.

Westinghouse Is Active.

Westinghouse, whose directors meet for dividend action tomorrow, was fairly active, although its range was narrower than recently. Coca Cola provided one of the outstanding weak spots, losing more than 2 net. The day's transactions totaled 829,745 shares.

Efforts to smooth out tangles at Lausanne and to expedite the relief bill at Washington found the market too engrossed with other happenings to pay particular attention to what was going on outside the financial district. The freight loadings report represented a gain of 16,849 cars, but that apparently represented in large measure stimulation of shipments in anticipation of the higher excise taxes which became effective June 21.

May earnings figures for the class 1 carriers are now nearly complete. With all but half a dozen or so accounted for, the decrease from a year ago is striking; it is also substantially under April. There is hope of a seasonal upturn, but with the number of roads which are not covering fixed charges showing an increase, the need for a very generous recovery is evident.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—The absence of encouraging influences caused a dull and irregular market during the forenoon, with foreigners turning weak. Gilt-edged securities and oil shares improved in the late trading and the closing was steadier.

Paris—The bourse opened very steady, offers being easily absorbed. Bears also contributed to the improved tendency by their repurchases. French rentes were weak, particularly 3 per cents, while international issues were irregular. The closing was hesitant.

Berlin—Trading on the bourse was stagnant and a trifle lower.

Great Northern Shops To Increase Operation

St. Paul, June 28 (A.P.).—The Great Northern Railway announced that car repair shops employing 1,559 returned to a full-time basis today and that on July 5 their forces would be increased by 220 workers.

W. P. Kenney, president, said excellent crop prospects throughout the line's area, with indications of heavy tonnage to be removed, were responsible for the increased employment.

Norfolk & Western Cuts Common Dividend to $8

New York, June 28 (A.P.).—Norfolk & Western Railway Co.'s common stock was placed on an $8 annual basis today against the regular rate of $10 previously paid. Directors declared a quarterly disbursement of $2 a share payable September 19 to stock of record August 31.

This was the first cut by the road during the present depression. Extras of $2 were paid in both 1930 and 1931, while in 1929, when the stock was on an $8 basis, an extra of $4 was paid.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Tues.	Mon.
Number of advances	142	67
Number of declines	194	307
Stocks unchanged	150	137
Total issues traded	486	511

Stocks.

Prices closed at former levels after a day of varied fluctuations. Exception to the unchanged position of the general list was rails, which slumped to new low ground for the year.

Bonds.

Trading on the exchange was spotty, showing a tendency to be upset by rails. Federal issues were active and firm. Average decline was three-tenths of 1 point.

Curb.

Early flurry of selling yielded to listless trading. Changes were narrow at closing. The more active issues showed fair resistance to selling.

Wheat.

Cotton.

Tone is steady despite slight losses. Liquidation is absorbed after July notices are distributed. Liverpool reports spirited buying by the trade.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN ON HARVEST REPORT

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—Anxiety over meagerness of arrivals of newly harvested wheat gave a brisk upturn to wheat values in the late dealings today.

Enlarged speculative buying on dips in prices resulted also from belief that good weather Southwest was now imperative to prevent further heavy losses from rains.

Wheat closed firm at virtually the day's top, ½ to ¾ above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to ½ higher, oats ½ to ¾ off, and provisions 7 to 12 cents advance.

Receipts Are Light.

A striking contrast was that today's domestic primary receipts of wheat amounted to only 556,000 bushels against 1,873,000 bushels a year ago. Arrivals of wheat at Southwestern points today were 601 cars, compared with 2,816 cars on the corresponding day last year.

Corn, oats and rye were helped by wheat rallies and by the most active shipping demand for corn in some time. Charters were made for vessel-room to take 355,000 bushels of corn to Eastern Lake ports. Meanwhile, oats and rye were decidedly weak at intervals, July oats touching the lowest price since 1897 and July rye the lowest since 1884, a result of scattered liquidation.

Provisions advanced along with hog values.

INTEREST CENTERS ON DIVIDEND ACTION

Rail and Corporate Boards to Pass on Payments for July 1.

New York, June 28 (A.P.).—The boards of several leading corporations, including three important railroads, are scheduled to meet for dividend action today.

A Pennsylvania Railroad board meeting is expected to prove little more than a formality so far as dividend consideration is concerned. The board took no action at its last meeting.

The important industrial dividend meetings are those of American Can and Allied Chemical. Neither of these companies has found it necessary to reduce disbursements to common stockholders up to now.

Allied Chemical has been on a $6 basis for several years and for a time the company paid a small stock dividend as well. In 1931 the earnings for the common stock were equal to $6.74 a share.

Norfolk & Western Railway had May net operating income of $1,091,480, compared with $1,603,462 a year ago. Figures for other roads reporting today follow:

Brazil Destroys 263,000 More Sacks of Coffee

Rio de Janeiro, June 28 (A.P.).—Slightly more than 263,000 sacks of coffee were destroyed by the government last week, it was reported today.

This brings the total destroyed since this policy of reducing the surplus production was adopted to 7,978,386 sacks.

Chicago Suburb Bank Fails to Open Doors

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—The First National Bank of Riverside, a suburb, failed to open for business today. J. R. Osterberg, cashier, said the bank's assets were excellent, and he saw no reason why depositors should not be paid in full. There were $280,000 on deposit.

RECORDS OF TRADING DISCOUNT ELECTIONS

This phrase invariably sends a tremor through the average investor or speculator—but there is little in the long record of American finance to justify it. A half century of market history shows two things with surprising conclusiveness:

1. The tidal force of world events—lean or bumper crops, inflow or outflow of gold, war or peace—moved prices where they would, with the rivers of speeches by political campaigners and the candidates, have limited effect.

2. Declines or rallies have followed the presidential elections in almost equal number and except for a few instances appear to have had their motivating force in forces other than relief, or alarm, growing out of the popular ballot.

Record of 14 Elections.

A study of stock market averages, compiled by Warren M. Persons, economist, carries the record of price movements back to 1875. In that period there have been fourteen presidential campaigns, not including the present.

The sensitive stock market has rallied during the height of eight of these and has declined during six of them.

With few exceptions, the price changes have not been sharp. Following is a record of the "presidential years" and of the market's behavior between October 31 and December 31 of those years. The averages are adjusted to the level of the Dow-Jones average in 1897.

Records From 1876.

1876. Hayes elected. The rail averages advanced from 33.2 to 34.4 and the industrials from 48.0 to 50.0.

1880. Garfield elected. The rails advanced from 52.6 to 57.8, and the industrials were about unchanged at 56.0.

1892. Cleveland elected. The rails declined from 57.4 to 56.7, and the industrials from 69.0 to 67.0.

1900. McKinley reelected. The rails advanced from 78.2 to 91.1, and the industrials from 57.7 to 67.5.

1904. Roosevelt elected. The rails advanced from 112.2 to 116.5, and the industrials from 61.1 to 69.5.

1908. Taft elected. The rails advanced from 108.0 to 117.6, and the industrials from 81.6 to 85.6.

1912. Wilson elected. The rails declined from 122.0 to 117.8, and the industrials from 92.3 to 88.0.

1916. Wilson reelected. The rails declined from 110.6 to 106.3, and the industrials from 102.1 to 98.5.

1920. Harding elected. The rails declined from 83.6 to 74.2, and the industrials from 84.9 to 71.9.

1924. Coolidge elected. The rails advanced from 88.4 to 97.8, and the industrials from 102.0 to 114.2.

1928. Hoover elected. The rails advanced from 141.3 to 147.4, and the industrials from 248.7 to 280.8.

Trade Revival Planned By Canadian Lake Ships

Montreal, Quebec, June 28 (A.P.). Plans of Canadian lake steamship owners to stem the decline in revenue from commerce on the Great Lakes became known today.

A company is to be incorporated to act for all Canadian lake steamship owners in arranging charters for grain-carrying boats, and a manager will handle the affairs of the new organization, with headquarters in Winnipeg.

Through the new organization all charters for grain between Fort William, Port Arthur and points on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence will be made.

SUGAR—Raw, unchanged early today, but offerings at last paid prices were slightly more liberal. It developed that yesterday about 80,000 bags of Cuban were sold to outport refiners for first half July shipment at 2.90. In refined the withdrawal demand continued liberal, but new business was light and prices were unchanged at 3.85 for fine granulated.

CHEVY CHASE GOLF LEAD TO HITZ

FRED HITZ, who played his first round last Monday in the Chevy Chase Club championship in a fine 73, was able yesterday to turn in a card which totaled only 72. With an aggregate of 145 for 36 holes, he is now far ahead of the rest of the field, with C. Ashmead Fuller trailing seven strokes behind.

The first nine holes which Hitz played yesterday were not phenomenal, for starting with two fives and with a six on the par 5 hole he finished in 39. The second nine, however, was something to write home about. He began with three threes in succession, a par and two birdies, and although he wasted a stroke on the thirteenth, scored another birdie on the fourteenth and ended with a total of 33.

Fine Putting Keeps Score Low.

While his long game was perfect, it was his putting which enabled him to score so low, for he was ramming the ball into the cup from every angle of the green. His card:

Out ..... 5 5 4 2 5 4 4 6 4—39
In ..... 3 3 3 4 3 5 4 4 4—33—72

The scores of the other contestants for 36 holes are as follows: C. Ashmead Fuller, 75—77—152; R. P. Davidson, defending champion, 81—77—158; Emmons Smith, jr., 84—79—163; A. McCook Dunlop, 83—81—164; George Richards, jr., 82—84—166; Frank P. Reeside, 88—83—171.

The championship contest will continue today and tomorrow, with eighteen holes, medal play, each day.

BOY SERIOUSLY HURT BY POWDER HE FINDS

Blast That Follows Experiment in Alley Inflicts Bad Burns.

A childish experiment yesterday sent an 8-year-old boy to Emergency Hospital with painful burns. He is in undetermined condition, while his three companions, although uninjured, are being treated at their homes for severe shock.

Adolph Schick, of 2000 H street northwest; his brother, Elmer, 9 years old, and their two friends, Robert Stringfellow, 11, 1826 H street northwest, and George Clark, 8, 1819 G street northwest, were playing behind the restaurant of the Schick boys' father, W. M. Schick, 1815 G street northwest.

Think of July Fourth.

Adolph found a tin can containing a powder-like mixture. He called this to the attention of his companions, and it was decided to see if the powder would burn. If a colored light resulted, the boys thought perhaps some of it could be saved for the Fourth of July.

The contents of the can were dumped on a big rock. Matches were procured and everything was set for the experiment.

Deafening Explosion.

While the other boys stood at a respectful distance, Adolph struck a match and touched it to the pile. A deafening explosion resounded throughout the neighborhood. Adolph, his clothes partially blown from his body, lay on the ground.

The other boys ran screaming into Mr. Schick's restaurant. Adolph was taken to the hospital, where it was found he suffered burns to his face and body.

Woman Who Took Poison Succumbs

Certificate of Suicide Is Issued in Death of Mrs. May Bowers.

Mrs. May A. Bowers, 27, died at Emergency Hospital yesterday morning as the result of a quantity of poison swallowed last Wednesday. She had stated that she had been despondent and that she wanted to end her life. Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald last night issued a certificate of suicide.

The young woman was found suffering from the effects of the poison draught in the apartment of her sister, Miss Gladys Thomas, at the Park Lane, 2025 I street northwest. A roommate of Miss Thomas, Miss Lillian Taylor, discovered Mrs. Bowers' attempt.

Mrs. Bowers had lived with her sister and Miss Taylor for about four months, since separating from her husband; police were informed. Funeral plans had not been made late yesterday.

SNOW ILLUSION

MISS DOROTHY WELLS,

2938 Bellevue terrace northwest, stopped in wonderment last night when she passed this sign at Fourteenth and the Avenue. She is shown above trying to decide just who is wrong—the weather man or the Police Department. Maybe the Police Department is optimistic, but indications of snow seem very remote. Anyway, the sign was there, and perhaps visitors will remain a while just to see what happens.

DISTRICT'S DESIRES ARE LARGELY MET

The approaching wind-up of another Congress session yesterday found the District with little to be desired in local legislative action, outside of losses suffered in District appropriations and minor measures remaining unenacted.

Virtually all bills urged by the District Commissioners have received House and Senate attention. There are four minor exceptions, and a last-minute move will be made to push these through the House.

Adjournment probably will find two major controversial issues practically in a deadlock—the perennial traction merger bill and the four Mapes bills saddling $4,000,000 in additional taxes on the District. Both of these measures have passed the House. A delayed Bureau of Efficiency report blocks Senate action on the Mapes bills; minority opposition bars the way to merger agreement.

The four bills on which action is sought before adjournment include authorization for the Washington Gas Light Co. to build a gas holder in Southeast Washington, power for the Commissioners to close unnecessary streets, passage of the firearms regulation bill and creation of a board of indeterminate sentence and parole for the District.

Neither the Mapes bills nor the merger will die with this session. Both will come up for Senate approval when the Senate convenes in December.

Plans for Street Renaming Pushed

County Manager Confers With Committee in Arlington.

The street renaming committee of Arlington County, headed by County Manager Roy S. Braden, meeting last night at the courthouse, continued work on the plan for extension of streets through undeveloped territory. This plan will prevent the development of new subdivisions without regard to connections or new streets with the old ones.

The plans of the committee are that only six main thoroughfares in the county will retain the present names. They are the Lee highway, Jefferson Davis highway, Wilson boulevard, Glebe road, Columbia pike and Mount Vernon Memorial highway. Four of thees are State highways, one a Federal highway and the other a county highway.

The program is to rename all other streets in an alphabetical or numerical order.

Bus Line Extension Approved.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday granted permission to the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to extend its Rhode Island avenue bus line from Twenty-second and Quincy streets northeast to Twenty-second and Shepherd streets. Action was again postponed on the petitions for a gas rate hearing, due to the absence of Maj. John C. Gotwals.

BRIDE URGES RIGHT OF LABOR PICKETING

Proposes Amendment to Sign Regulations to Exempt Such Banners.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday overrode the findings of the District sign committee and recommended to the Commissioners that the municipal sign regulations be amended so as not to prohibit labor picketing in conformance with a request from the Fur Workers' Union. The Commissioners postponed action.

Citing the act of March 23, this year, restricting the issuance of injunctions by Federal courts, Mr. Bride held that the Commissioners might be similarly bound. He opposed the following: "The provisions of this section shall not be held to apply * * * to banners or signs carried by members of any labor organization, or similar body, whether of employers or employes, in giving publicity to the existence of, or the facts involved in, any labor dispute."

Change Held Unfavorable.

Following a public hearing the sign committee, of which Capt. Hugh P. Oram, director of inspection, is chairman, reported unfavorably on the proposed change on the ground that it would constitute a discrimination in favor of a particular kind of advertising and would materially weaken the sign regulations.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, while officially concurring in this recommendation, asked the corporation counsel to determine whether picketing might be permitted without weakening the regulations. The original sign committee had no intention of banning picketing, he said.

Gotwals Backs Oram.

Maj. Gotwals yesterday concurred in the recommendation of Capt. Oram that the application of the Pantheon Corporation for approximately 1,152 square feet of signs on their special World War exhibition building at New Jersey avenue and C street northwest, instead of the 200 square feet allowed by the sign regulations, be denied. The Fine Arts Commission had approved the Pantheon Corporation's request.

K. of C. Will Install New Chiefs Tomorrow

The new grand knight and other officials of the five Knights of Columbus councils in the District will be installed at a meeting of the State council at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 8 p. m.

Fred J. Rice, State deputy supreme knight, will be installing officer. Plans for participation in the golden anniversary national convention here in August were discussed.

Wilson, New Chairman, To Aid Potomac Travel

E. S. Wilson, jr., was named chairman of a committee to make recommendations to promote Potomac passenger traffic at a luncheon of the Washington Chamber of Commerce transportation committee on the steamer City of Washington yesterday.

The committee voted to defer action on the proposal that taxicabs be permitted to park beside fire hydrants.

2 Will Die Today For York's Killing

Men to Be Electrocuted; Slew Dry Agent as He Cornered Them.

Two men will pay with their lives this morning for the murder of Lamer Watson York, prohibition agent, who was killed in a gun battle April 11, 1930, in Brooks court northwest.

John Borum and John Logan, both colored, will die in the electric chair at the District Jail at 10 o'clock. The two men failed to prove their innocence in an appeal to the United States Supreme Court, although a companion, Milton Guy, was freed by that body when sufficient evidence connecting him with the crime was not produced.

Attorneys for Borum and Logan claimed their conviction was invalid because each was acquitted of firing the fatal shot and convicted together. York was killed when he trailed the trio's automobile into the court. A quantity of liquor was later found in the machine.

Man Burned as Match Ignites Gasoline in Car

Just after Campbell F. King, of 920 Sheridan street northwest, had replenished his gasoline tank at the truck of a gas huckster at Nineteenth and V streets northwest yesterday, he lit a match to smoke a cigarette.

Before the cigarette ignited, some of the gasoline caught fire. King suffered slight burns about the face, but did not accept medical treatment. Fire apparatus put out the blaze in his car, which was slightly damaged.

Boy, Playing in Water, Drowns.

Alonzo Perry, colored, 15 years old, of 213 Four-and-One-Half street southwest, was drowned Monday in Little River, near Highway Bridge. He was playing on a log when he fell into the water. The body was recovered by Ernest Kern, a life guard at Airport Pool.

Tractor Contract Is Awarded.

A contract for furnishing two tractors to the refuse department was awarded by the District Commissioners to the Eastern Contractors Equipment Co., of Frederick, Md., on its low bid of $4,080, including the allowance of two used tractors.

2 Policemen Turn Tables; Chief Out $2

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford is a stickler for discipline—but two Eleventh Precinct officers who fell before his zeal for enforcement of traffic rules will testify he isn't such a heartless fellow, after all.

Last week he gave both of them traffic tickets for parking police cars too near a boulevard stop sign on Chicago street, at its junction with Nichols avenue southeast. The tickets cost them $2 each.

Afterward, he admitted to reporters yesterday, he felt that he might have been a little harsh, but decided that withdrawal of the charges would not have been conducive to the best discipline.

So the next day he purposely parked in a restricted zone across from the precinct when he noted one of the men, Private Shelton R. McKee, standing in the doorway. McKee noted the action. Glassford walked up to him and looked at McKee.

"Well, you've got me," he said to McKee. McKee admitted that he had but didn't know just what to do. So Gen. Glassford handed him $2 and said: "Here's the amount I cost each of you fellows the other night. You can book me or accept $1 each so that each of you will lose only $1 out of the incident while I will lose $2 either way."

Gen. Glassford was not listed on the Eleventh Precinct arrest book so it is presumed the two officers took the alternative offered them by their chief and pocketed $1 apiece. The other policeman was Private Milton Welch.

Florida Men Win $5,500 Award on Realty Notes

Decision of the District Court of Appeals, written by Chief Justice Martin, yesterday affirmed a decree of the District Supreme Court awarding Samuel and S. C. Hammond, of St. Petersburg, Fla., $5,500, with interest from 1926. The case was an equity action against A. O. Dille and Edward V. Horen, of Washington, on mortgage notes outstanding on Florida real estate, which the local men purchased during the Florida boom.

Even though the property involved had been foreclosed under a prior mortgage, bringing an insufficient amount to pay the plaintiff's notes, the court held the defendants were personally liable in accordance with the holding of Justice Letts. The plaintiffs were represented by Attorney Leon Pretzfelder.

Guatemalan Denies Revolution Plans

(Associated Press.)

Visiting Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State, Minister Adrian Recinos, of Guatemala, yesterday denied that the president of his country, Jorge Ubico, was aiding plans for a revolution against the El Salvador government.

President Maximiliano Martinez, of El Salvador, in a cable received by the Salvadorean legation here yesterday charged Ubico with having part in a plot to attack San Salvador with forces organized in Guatemala and alleged that the Communist elements were profiting by this help to foment an uprising.

Guatemala City, Guatemala, June 28 (A.P.).—Arturo Araujo, deposed president of Salvador, today denied an accusation attributed to the present head of the Salvadorean government that he was conspiring with the government of Guatemala to invade Salvador. "Guatemala has offered me security and hospitality," he said. "I live here in peace and my mind is not dwelling on politics."

TRACKS TO BE LAID IN BUZZARDS POINT

P. R. R. Announces Actual Work Will Be Started in Two Weeks.

A survey prior to installation of trackage facilities in Buzzards Point, on the Anacostia River water front, between the Navy Yard and the Army War College, by the Pennsylvania Railroad, was announced yesterday by J. G. Nettleton, local representative.

Approval of the project by the railroad directors indicates the immediate development of an important industrial area. Trackage extension will enable the Potomac Electric Power Co. to erect a $5,000,000 electric plant, as the railroad project will provide adequate transportation facilities for the construction work.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission supported the development for a number of years. Recent legislative enactments have made the trackage plans possible. Mr. Nettleton stated that the actual work of laying the tracks will begin within two weeks, and will continue for about one month.

Cooling Congress Is Colossal Task

Each day the refrigerating machinery produces cold air which would equal 400 tons of ice, the experts say. The system was installed two years ago at a cost of $323,000.

SOUTHEAST CITIZENS AGAINST CASH BONUS

Association Also Attacks Plans for Additional Gas Tanks.

Voting against a resolution which pledged support to granting a cash bonus to veterans, the Southeast Citizens Association also devoted its meeting last night to plans of frustrating a measure awaiting congressional action which would allow construction of additional gas tanks along Anacostia River.

Contending enactment of the proposed legislation without a hearing of citizens of the Southeast section was a travesty on justice and a usurpation of the rights of the people, the association adopted a resolution to bring pressure against the Washington Gaslight Co. to construct its tanks elsewhere.

Declared Menace.

J. C. L. Ritter, chairman of the committee investigating the proposed enactment, said the additional tanks were "not only a menace to health and beauty of the section, but that if the tanks exploded the residents of the section would be annihilated and the United States Capitol would crumble from the force of the explosion."

A member of the association said at the meeting, which was held at Buchanan School, that the section would be "sitting on a powder keg" if the tanks were constructed. The association decided to appeal to both houses of Congress and to the President.

Committee Appointed.

Opposition to the bonus veterans centered around one of the members of the association who said the organization should not pledge its support because the "bonus seekers were trying to intimidate Congress."

The association voted to adjourn over the summer months, but appointed committees to investigate and act on the legislative and social problems facing the community. Allen Davis presided at the meeting.

Isaac Gans Appointed To Jury Commission

The justices of the District Supreme Court, through Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, yesterday appointed Isaac Gans, prominent civic worker, to the District Jury Commission yesterday.

He will be sworn in today to take the place of Mrs. Lilian S. Prichard, whose term of three years expired yesterday. The other mebers of the commission are E. C. Graham and H. G. Smithy.

Early Hearing Planned On Vegetable Trucks

A public hearing will be held soon by the District Commissioners to consider the advisability of prohibiting the sale of foodstuffs, vegetables, fruit and the like from trucks in the streets. The date has not been set.

The decision was reached after receipt of letters of protest from the Retail Grocers Protective Association and the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association. A similar ban on gasoline hucksters will be enforced on July 1.
